The World Is Coming Lloyd George, Ablest Man Married 70 Years, Happy The 2-Brain Dinosaur

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

The world comes to the United States, pigcerat among nations. Our dollar is good, other money falls away. The world's gold is piling up here—not much good it seems to do us. America, alone, is really on a gold basis.

All nations troop to Washington, led by their prime ministers. It is a picture, grown up, of little boys following the youngster with money on his way to the candy store.

When they have got what they want—first of all a wiping out of debts already due us—they will go away again, and in accordance with human nature will save their injured vanity with scorn for the "Dollar Nation," or actually picking a quarrel with us.

The ablest man in that Washington gathering will be Lloyd George. He knows his nation's strength and weakness, and tells the truth. His latest speech is ablest of all. Unpleasant truths, he tells the English:

"You blame me for dealing with Sinn Fein—all Ireland's power is back of Sinn Fein, nothing else to deal with.

"Beware how you throw away this chance to make peace. The alternative is to tax yourselves heavily, send young men to be killed in thousands. The whole Irish country will be against you. Remember how hard it was for us in South Africa. This will be another guerrilla war, requiring ten of our men for every one we fight.

"Every hill and mountain will be a Sinn Fein fort, every farmhouse a Sinn Fein source of information. If you decide on war, it will be a long war and uncertain war."

Lucky England to have a man wise enough to realize the strength of the enemy, not afraid to tell the truth to his fellow countrymen.

"If you do not like my advice you need not take it. I shall be glad to go to the King and say, 'I hand you my resignation.'"

James and Mary Thompson, Danville, Ct., married seventy years ago—he is 103, she 96.

This is a happy marriage. Each understands everything the other says. Others would not understand a thousand things deeply important to them. Each without the other would feel lost.

That is what makes marriage a success. It explains Galton's interesting statement that with ordinary little people 90 per cent. of the children are best. With kings and very rich men, the first child is often the best—the husband is bored by the time the second and third arrive, the wife also, sometimes.

With little people, as years pass, husband and wife become more and more to each other, each child seems more wonderful than its predecessor, and back of it more intense affection than the earlier children. That is why Caruso, number 10, sang so well.

Moral: Have more children, no matter how many you have, if you are an ordinary person—a President of these United States may be waiting for you to bring out of infinity into citizenship.

Do you know the dinosaur with two brains? He was seventy feet long, stood up taller than a house. A tiny brain in his small, snakelike head and not energy in him. The whole huge body much less think for it.

So, halfway down his backbone, there was an enlargement of the spinal cord and that was another brain, with nerve centres controlling the animal's lower half.

You see such a monster now, in China, with four hundred million of inhabitants patient, industrious, courageous, but with no government brain powerful enough to move and control the whole huge body.

There is a brain in North China, another half way down in South China. Japan and European nations attack and eat China as rats need to eat the feet of the dinosaur. Six great Chinese cities have foreign flags flying over them.

That situation will be one problem of the Washington conference.

Madame Yajima is here from Japan in her ninetieth year, energetic and alert, mentally and physically, as any woman of forty. She comes across the Pacific because she is interested in the arms conference. She says:

"Those that believe in God and love peace should make this world the home of God."

Madame Yajima, leader of thinking women in Japan, says she is perfectly well at ninety because her parents "did not drink rice wine," the Japanese substitute for whiskey; also because she has always worked, never worried, never thought of her health.

She was the first female school teacher in Japan, and remembers the day when every Japanese believed that the Mikado really was related to the sun and moon, descendant of the gods.

The Jewish telegraphic agency sends word from Jerusalem that land on the other side of the Jordan, trans-Jordania, will be separated from Palestine, made into a separate State. This may represent a British effort to pacify the Arabs. It looks like whittling down a promise. The making of many little States means small fights and big wars hereafter, to say nothing of troubling small boys with complicated geography.

Romeo Keys Marriage Annulled

Witnesses Tell Judge Wealthy Contractor Talked on Floor With Feet in Air

The marital troubles of John Baker ("Romeo") Keys and his wife, Florence Girardin Keys, former elevator girl at the Harvard Club, ended today when Judge William A. Burns in the Suffolk County divorce session of Superior Court found that Keys was insane at the time of the marriage and decreed the marriage null and void.

The annulment of the marriage of the wealthy retired contractor and his pretty girl bride was a distinct surprise to the crowd that had assembled in the courtroom to hear the testimony in the divorce proceedings which Keys had brought against his wife and which was scheduled to be heard today.

TELLS OF ANTICS.

At 9:30 a. m. counsel for Keyes and Mrs. Keys conferred with Judge Burns in the Judge's lobby. The conference lasted for about an hour. Later, Attorney Damon E. Hall, for Keys, offered an amendment to the court, asking for the annulment of the marriage on the ground that Keys was insane when he married. Counsel for Mrs. Keys assented and three witnesses were called.

Details of some of Keys peculiar antics were graphically described by witnesses. Attorney George R. Crafts of Chilmark and Boston told of Keys appearing in his office, taking off his shoes and, with startled stenographers looking on, proceeding to lie on his back on the floor, with his feet in the air.

Crafts testified that he heard a loud noise in his outer office one day in September, 1918. When he looked out, he said he saw Keys on his back on the floor, saying: "You are not much to look at, but you have been good friends of mine for sixty-five years. Good old feet!"

"Keys then jumped up and, grabbing a big chair, danced around the room," said Crafts. The stenographers became frightened and fled in confusion."

Craft stated it was with difficulty he finally quieted Keys. Crafts testified Keys always brought bundles of papers which he insisted Crafts should examine each visit.

TALKED TO ALL WOMEN.

He then told of taking Keys to Cincinnati to defend himself in insanity proceedings that were brought there against him.

Crafts told of his experience in the station at Buffalo, where they had a wait of several hours.

"Keys talked to every woman he saw in the depot who would listen to him," said Crafts. "He insisted on shaking the hand of every one that he was 'Romeo' Keys and made me very uncomfortable by dragging me over and insisting on introducing me to them all. That night in the smoking room of the sleeper Keys entertained all the men with a recital of his affairs."

Crafts then told of the arrival of Keys at Cincinnati. "When we reached our room in the hotel Keys wanted some other shoes. He called in all the bellboys of the hotel and lined them up in a row. Then he measured their feet and finally selected one boy and ordered him to remove his shoes. Keys then put on the boy's shoes and gave him his slippers in exchange.

At Cincinnati a decree was handed down placing Keys in a hospital for insanity, Crafts testified.

Dr. Arthur Ruggles, expert in mental diseases at the Butler Hospital, Providence, R. I., testified he examined Keys on June 9, 1918, just a few

FORTY CENT TAX ON EACH CASE OF BEER

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The government will receive forty cents in taxes on each case of beer sold for medical purposes under the new treasury regulations, it was said today by treasury officials.

Under the existing revenue laws the taxes on beer containing more than one half of one per cent. of alcohol is six dollars a barrel of thirty-one gallons and the tax on smaller amounts is in proportion.

The prohibition unit, however, officials said, would not be concerned with the price charged for medical beer and the revenue bureau would only be interested in policing the lawful tax which officials added, might be increased under legislation suggested in congress.

No applications from brewers for permits to manufacture beer for medical purposes have been received here, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes stated today. He added he did not believe there would be as frauds in applying for permission to engage in the medical beer business as the public had been led to believe.

MEDFORD MAN SLAIN AS THIEF

Killed While Carrying Away Liquor Stolen From Cellar at Bridgeport, Ct.

By Associated Press

Bridgeport, Ct., Nov. 2.—Thomas McDonald, thirty years old, of Medford, Mass., was shot at 4:30 o'clock this morning by Albert Dow of this city as McDonald with two companions were carrying away two cases of liquor which they are alleged to have taken from Dow's cellar.

McDonald was declared by the police to have had a burglar kit. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he died a few hours after the shooting.

McDonald is said to have a brother and sister living in New Bedford, Mass.

In a statement made by Dow, he said that he and his brother, being awakened by the burglar alarm, crawled out on the upper back porch. Dow had his rifle and his brother a revolver.

The former declared he saw three men come from the rear of his house and stand in the driveway whispering.

"I ordered them to throw up their hands or I'd fire," said Dow. "They turned and ran and I fired twice. One of them dropped, while the others ran away. Shortly afterward the police came and sent the fellow away in the ambulance."

Dow was held by the police, but later released pending the result of the coroner's inquest set for this afternoon.

Suspect Rum Runners in Shooting at Lynn

Police of Lynn are attempting to clear up the mystery of a shooting affray in the lonely section of Vernolica street, extension late yesterday, in which one man was shot and seriously wounded by a number of men, believed to have been rum runners. Both shooters and wounded man have vanished completely, leaving no trace, except a pool of blood near the home of Abraham Nomey, at No. 148 Vernolica street.

According to the story told to Inspector Georgs Rowe and Sergeant John Mackie of the Lynn force, by Nomey, he and his niece, Miss Emma Nomey, were in Nomey's home when they heard a large auto outside their door.

Nomey says that he peered out through the rain at the machine which had stopped fifty yards away. He saw half a dozen men get out and stand at the curb talking.

One of the men appeared to be much excited and kept shouting:

"You overcharged me, you cheat, you crimper."

This quarrel went on for some minutes and then three men climbed back into the machine and drew the curtains. The angry man on the sidewalk continued his abuse of the men in the auto.

Suddenly, Nomey says, he saw a hand come through the curtains and a revolver flashed. The shouting man threw up both hands and crumpled to the sidewalk. Again and again the revolver flashed, and then the machine started at furious speed in the direction of Lakeside.

Nomey says that he and his niece rushed out to the man who remained on the sidewalk. The wounded man had scrambled to his feet again, assisted by one of the others, and was holding a bloody handkerchief to his bleeding head when the Nomeys arrived.

Nomey asked if he could give any assistance and offered his home to the injured man, but was gruffly told to "go to the devil."

He and Miss Nomey went back to

Iowa Doctor Claims He Has Serum Cure For Varicose Veins

By Associated Press

Davenport, Iowa, Nov. 2.—Dr. C. L. Barewald, physician and Mayor of Davenport, at a County Medical Society meeting announced his discovery of a serum treatment for varicose veins which, he said, had proved successful in fifty cases he had treated. He said he believed the method would eliminate the necessity for operations.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Dr. Georgs H. Simmons, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, while declining to pass an official opinion on the announcement of Dr. C. L. Barewald, of Davenport, Iowa, of discovery of a serum for varicose veins, said: "I would say that such a cure was impossible, but in 1,000 cases out of 10,000 it is improbable."

SCHOONER IN DISTRESS, WHISKEY SHIPMENT GONE

New York, Nov. 2.—The British two-sticker J. B. Young was piloted into port today minus her captain and with nothing to show for 3,000 cases of whiskey listed on her manifest.

The schooner was sighted with distress signals off the New Jersey coast yesterday by the pilot boat, which guided her to the harbor. The pilot, Lewis Mangor, explained that the skipper, Captain Miles Dixon, departed in a motorboat last Friday for parts unknown while the schooner was loafing off the Long Island shore.

PUPIL'S DEATH DUE TO BRAIN HEMORRHAGE

Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary today announced the result of an autopsy on the body of thirteen-year-old George Walstein of No. 121 High street, Charlestown, who was stricken fatally while at his desk in the Boston Latin High School yesterday. Dr. Leary reported that examination showed the boy to have suffered from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 2.—Five thousand miners, idle two months, returned to work today when the Glen Alden Coal Company reopened the collieries which were closed on the ground that the company could not operate them under the new Kohler and Fulower "Mine Card" laws, passed by the last Legislature. The laws are still in force.

AGREE ON PLAN FOR IRELAND

Ulster Concedes Two Counties to Sinn Fein, London Reports Say

By International News Service.

London, Nov. 2.—The Irish peace negotiations were once again on the way toward a happy solution this afternoon. Important concessions were made by the Ulster Unionists, which promised to overcome the chief obstacles to an agreement.

Sir Edward Carson, former leader of the Unionists, acted as mediary at the request of Premier Lloyd George. It is understood that the Ulsterites have agreed to the detachment of the counties of Fermanagh and Tyrone from the province.

The change from pessimism to optimism, following the revelation that Ulster was giving way to the Sinn Fein, came with dramatic suddenness. It was generally felt this afternoon that peace was under way and that after all the Premier might be able to get away from Washington within the next week. The experts of the various committees settled down late today to work out details, and they were under pledge to proceed at breakneck speed.

GRIFFITH'S TRUMP CARD.

It was understood that Arthur Griffith, head of the Sinn Fein delegation, would withhold until the last minute his promise of Irish acquiescence to British royal sovereignty. This was his trump card and he was saving it till the last.

After the appeals of Premier Lloyd George, Sir Edward Carson approached Sir James Craig, Premier of the Ulster government at Belfast, and through him appealed to the North Ireland Unionists "to sacrifice two counties in a spirit of patriotism rather than remain obdurate."

Stubbornness, the Premier pointed out, might plunge the nation into a war in Ireland, which would undoubtedly last two years, costing nearly a quarter of a million lives and $1,000,000,000 in money.

But, more than this, the Premier de-

COURT GRANTS DIVORCE TO MURPHY

Husband of Frances Stuart, Movie Actress, Awarded Decree

Joseph A. Murphy, Boston salesman, was granted a decree of divorce today by Superior Court Justice Callahan from his beautiful film-star wife, Frances Stuart Murphy.

The decree in its wording says that it was granted on the grounds of infidelity.

Murphy in his suit, hearings on which were completed a week ago last Friday, named as co-respondent Edward Rossi, millionaire cotton broker, of Chestnut Hill, accusing him of intimacy with his wife. He has also brought suit for $100,000 for alienation of his wife's affection against Rossi.

The trial of the case was marked by heated charges and counter-charges, both on teh part of attorneys and principals. Rossi alleged that Murphy and the moving picture star were in league to extort money from him and spoke freely of blackmail.

Murphy caused to be introduced into the hearings a statement from his attorney, Joseph Santosuosso, in

FIRES FOUR SHOTS IN ROW WITH SUITOR

Wife Grabs Assailant's Revolver and Turns It on Him After Spurning Love

Mrs. Marguerita Tarquinio, 29 years old, shot and killed her brother-in-law, Pasquale Ranna, in the kitchen of her home at No. 100 Gore street, East Cambridge, today, when he attempted to force her to elope with him.

The shooting came as the climax of a series of attempts on the part of the dead man to induce the woman to leave her husband, Antonio, and three children and fly with him, according to the story she told the police after the killing.

Ranna, who lived at No. 29 Ninth street and was employed by the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Company, went to the Gore street house early today, taking with him $345 in bills. Of this sum, $320 he carried in a vest pocket. The remainder, $25, he had in a coat pocket, with a revolver and a large razor.

Ranna was the father of six children, who are left destitute with their mother, Mrs. Jennie Ranna.

When the news of the shooting reached his home at No. 29 Ninth street, East Cambridge, his widow was prostrated and broke down completely. She was cared for by her neighbors.

According to the story told by neighbors and the woman herself, Ranna began the conversation with his sister-in-law by demanding the return of $350 which he had loaned Mrs. Tarquinio some time ago to complete the purchase of a lot in Revere.

WOULDN'T LEAVE CHILDREN.

The woman told him that she did not have the money and that he was not playing fair when he asked for its immediate return, as the agreement had given her more time in which to pay the debt.

Then Ranna is alleged to have pulled out the $225 which he had in his coat pocket and said:

"You know how you can earn this, if you want to."

Mrs. Tarquinio says that she brushed the money aside, replying that she could not and would not leave her children.

Then Ranna is said to have replaced the $225 with the revolver and to have drawn the $620 from his vest pocket and offered his sister-in-law all of it if she would flee with him.

"I told him that I would not go, and that if he kept on bothering me I would go to court again and ask to have him put in jail," Mrs. Tarquinio told the police.

But, according to her story, Ranna ignored her protest and seized her in his arms, trying to kiss her. She struggled desperately and managed to break away, but he caught her again and holding her close to him bit her on the arm.

In this struggle she says she reached into his coat pocket where the $225 and the revolver were, and drew out the revolver.

Then she broke away, and backing up against the kitchen door, she says, she began firing. The first three bullets entered Ranna's right side, and the fourth penetrated his right eye and lodged in the brain.

He pitched forward and slid under the kitchen table. When the last shot was fired Mrs. Tarquinio fainted.

Ranna was placed in a police ambulance and rushed to the Municipal Hospital, but died on the way there.

Mrs. Tarquinio was arraigned before Judge Stone in the East Cambridge district court, pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder and was held without bail for hearing on Nov. 15.

At her arraignment the woman appeared to be perfectly calm and later declined to talk about the shooting.

9,103 Are Killed by Motor Vehicles in One Year

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The national toll of dead through accidents caused by automobiles and other motor vehicles, excluding motorcycles, in 1920 was 9,103, the Bureau of the Census announced today. The number represents a death rate of 10.4 per 100,000 population as against 9.4 in 1919, 8.9 in 1917, and 6.8 in 1915. Between 1916 and 1920, therefore, the death rate from motor vehicle accidents and injuries increased by about four-fifths.

Lowell, Mass., and Houston, Texas, among the larger towns show the lowest deaths by motor accidents, each having had a total of eight in 1920.

Albany, N. Y., 13; Boston, 59; Bridgeport, 30; Camden, 21; Rochester 24; Syracuse, 25, are some of the reports made public by the Bureau of the Census today.

the house and telephoned to the police. Inspector Rowe and the others went to the spot in the police patrol, but by the time they arrived the wounded man and his two companions had disappeared.

A search of the vicinity by the police discovered a quart bottle of French cognac unopened and a quart bottle containing perhaps a gill of Scotch whiskey. On the sidewalk, where it was being rapidly washed away by the rain, was a pool of blood where the wounded man had lain.

So far these are the only traces of the affair the police have been able to find.

MARRIAGE OF 'ROMEO' KEYS ANNULLED

Judge Burns Finds He Was Insane When He Wed Elevator Girl

weeks before the marriage of Keys and the elevator girl, and found Keys at the time suffering from "oppressive insanity."

FOUND KEYS CHANGED.

He stated that in his opinion Keys could not have recovered by the time he was married. He said he talked abnormally of his heart and love affairs and should have been in a hospital for treatment at the time.

Thomas F. Buckley, long a companion of Keys, testified he had known Keys for fifteen years previous to 1919, and stated that Keys was decidedly changed when he went to him in 1919 as companion.

He told of Keys' going to Boston Common and lying flat on his back and then jumping to his feet with one spring. He also testified that Keys stopped strangers on the street and instructed them how to "walk properly." He told of Keys wearing house slippers on the street in Winter and stated that he was generally foolish, but not vicious.

Testimony of Keys was read from a deposition taken at the Commonwealth Hospital, where Keys is now confined on a sick bed. In his testimony Keys stated that he had married his wife in New York, but did not know who performed the ceremony.

He also stated that he and his bride returned at once to Boston and that he had never lived with his wife. "She would not allow me to go home with her," he stated in his deposition.

He further stated that they did not even ride together on the train coming back from New York after the marriage ceremony.

He deposed also that he had "drunk considerably" during his life, and stated that he had always "drunk American whiskey and beer," except when visiting friends, when he said he drank what they offered" him.

Following the annulment decree, Attorney John W. Vaughan, counsel for Mrs. Keys, gave out the following statement: "This was an unfortunate alliance between a fallen young girl and a silly old man of doubtful mental capacity, due to his excessive drinking at the time. Under the best of circumstances the marriage would not have resulted in anything but unhappiness for both parties. Miss Girardin's only interest was to clear her good name. She had no desire to force herself upon Keys or his family. She feels she is at present vindicated and that the true state of affairs has at last come to light with which she is satisfied."

Both Attorney Vaughan for Mrs Keys and Attorney Damon E. Hall for Keys denied that any cash settlement had been agreed to between the parties, although it had been rumored that a settlement whereby Mrs. Keys had received a large sum of money had been made.

OFFICIAL NAMED IN BROOKLINE HOSPITAL ROW

Corey Hill Citizens Say Health Board Secretary Owns One of Institutions

That "the frightful conditions" in the four private hospitals on Corey Hill have been allowed to exist because the owner of one of them is the secretary of the town board of health is the charge made today in the agitation for an official investigation.

Edward A. McEttrick, a Brookline lawyer, is the secretary both of the Board of Health and of the Selectmen. He is also the owner of the Summit Hospital on Summit street. This is one of the hospitals, it is charged, in a petition signed by seventy-five Corey Hill residents, which has become a nuisance.

The other hospitals referred to in the petition are: The Rainbow Sanitarium, Mrs. Carter's Home on Mason place and the Italian Hospital in the Jerome Jones mansion on Summit street.

DENTIST'S WIFE PROTESTS.

According to the petition, insane persons are allowed to roam the streets unattended, woman scream all night, dead bodies are left outside covered only with a sheet, and women are treated for serious illnesses in plain sight of the street.

A more explicit description of alleged conditions at the hospitals was given to a Boston American reporter by Mrs. Horace L. Howe, wife of a prominent dentist, of No. 143 Summit avenue. Mrs. Howe is regarded as the leader in the fight against the hospitals, and it was through her efforts that the petition was circulated.

Here are some of the alleged conditions enumerated by Mrs. Howe:

Insane patients lie in wait in bushes about the hill and seize children as they go by.

Garbage and waste have been thrown from the windows of the Summit Hospital.

One patient was seen by children disrobing in the public park at the top of the hill.

INSANE AUTHORS AT LARGE.

The shades were left open at the Summit Hospital so that suffering mothers could be seen by persons on the street.

An unattended insane man jumped about the streets like a barnyard fowl and crowed at the top of his lungs.

A former actress, now insane, frequented the public park and streets and gave wild performances in the open.

The Italian Hospital was without shades for several months so that everything that went on inside could be seen from the streets.

A woman patient at the Summit Hospital screamed all night. She was placed in a bathtub by the nurse, but her screams did not cease until a doctor arrived in the morning and gave her a hypodermic injection. All this was visible from nearby houses.

No orderlies were kept at the Summit Hospital so that escaped patients had to be brought back to the hospital by their fellow patients.

McEttrick himself denies that conditions at the Summit Hospital are bad.

which the lawyer repeated an alleged confession on Mrs. Murphy's part of intimacy with Ross. According to his testimony, Mrs. Murphy said she had permitted him to call on her at her apartment and elsewhere because "Joe didn't have much money, and I love pretty clothes. He (Ross) was very good to me, and gave me money from time to time."

Mrs. Murphy, who played opposite the late Enrico Caruso during the tenor's venture into the moving picture arena, was in a little Iowa town when the suit was filed. She hurried back to Boston at once to fight the case and clear her name.

Murphy charged that, in addition to having improper relations with his wife, Rose had introduced her to men of prominence in Washington and elsewhere, with whom she had gone to gay revels and parties.

Rose insisted throughout the hearing of the case that the charges against him were absurd and characterized the entire affair as "blackmail." It had been expected that the outcome of the alienation suit filed against him by Murphy would hinge to a great extent on the decision in the divorce case. The alienation suit is yet to be heard.

During the war Rose sought to claim exemption to the draft because his family was dependent on him. The board, however, ruled that his income and savings were sufficient to support them and forced him into service.

Adolph Greenberg, proprietor of a cigar store at No. 349 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, was shot down in his store early today by an armed bandit who foiled the establishment and escaped in a fast automobile.

The "get-away" machine with another bandit was waiting around the corner on Intervale street.

Police of the Dudley street station chased the bandits to Eglseton square, Jamaica Plain, where the trail was lost.

Greenberg was shot in the elbow. The bullet went upward and came out at his right shoulder. He is expected to recover.

The bandit and his partner secured $50 in cash, two checks and two cash boxes of uncertain value.

Greenberg had closed his store for the night and was counting his receipts when he heard a knock on the door.

The man at the door said he wished to telephone. Greenberg gave him permission.

Suddenly the man wheeled with a revolver in his hand and, keeping Greenberg "under cover," collected everything of value in the place.

As he concluded Greenberg made a slight motion, which the robber interpreted as hostile, and the latter fired.

cared, war in Ireland would at this time endanger British prestige abroad, especially at this time, when the armament conference is assembling at Washington.

Sir Edward Carson was convinced by the Premier's eloquent appeal and undertook to convince the Ulster Premier. Sir James Craig had already learned of the intense eagerness of King George for peace, even if concessions had to be made for it.

Before the Prince of Wales sailed on his trip around the world he had conveyed his father's opinions to intimate Tory friends of the Ulster Premier. Sir James relented from his "die hard" position, especially as Premier Lloyd George had promised to grant extra powers to the Ulster Parliament on condition that the province give up the two counties in question.

The Sinn Fein at Dublin had proposed a plebiscite for Ulster, being firmly convinced that the Sinn Fein preponderances in Fermanagh and Tyrone Counties would detach them from Ulster Province.

The plan now is to arrange a treaty of agreement which will be signed by the Sinn Fein and British ministers. Preliminary documents may be signed this week. If great speed is made the Premier may be able to sail Saturday, despite the fact that he has formally cancelled his passage for New York on the Aquitania.

It is learned that the Sinn Fein leaders were dining Sunday with Judge Campbell, an American banker, when a note was delivered from Premier Lloyd George stating that he had accepted the memorandum received during the week from the Sinn Fein. The note invited the Sinn Fein delegates to go to Downing Street and look over the speech which the Premier had prepared for delivery against the Tory "die-hards" in Commons Monday evening.

BEVERLY FARMS GIRL ATTACKED IN HER BEDROOM BY INTRUDER

MAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Attacked while asleep in her home on High street, Beverly Farms, the screams of pretty Helena C. Donovan awoke her father, Peter, who grappled with his daughter's assailant, and then administered a thrashing to the intruder.

When quiet was restored in the Donovan home and the lights turned on, the assailant was recognized as Alfred Bunce, single, a neighbor on High street, and formerly employed at the United Shoe Machinery Company.

Bunce was later arrested at his home by Patrolman Stone of the Beverly police, arraigned in the Salem District Court and held in $2,000 for the grand jury.

Bunce told the girl's father and police he gained entrance to the house via a dining room window on the first floor. He was coatless and hatless and in his stocking feet.

Stealing quietly up the stairs to the room of the sleeping girl, Bunce watched her deep breathing for several minutes and then leaned over. Suddenly the girl launched forth with her bare "trillys" and "nighties" away at the strange something she sensed was in the room.

She said afterward she first thought it was a cat she was kicking at, but found it was a man. She screamed at this discovery, and it was then she said that Bunce choked her and thrust his fingers in her mouth.

REFUSES TO DROP CHARGE AGAINST POLICEMAN

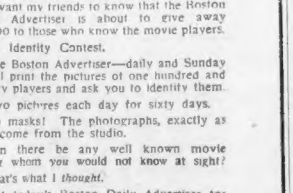
No settlement out of court of the charges against Ewen S. Cameron, suspended Brighton policeman, will be allowed, Judge Connelly of the Brighton court declared today. Cameron is charged with the larceny of property valued at $125 from Herman Frankel of No. 1739 Commonwealth avenue, and a revolver valued at $10 from James Zaffora, of No. 1965 Beacon street. Attorney for Cameron today asked Judge Connelly to allow the first charge to be dropped as the matter had been settled. Judge Connelly refused on the ground that charges against a public official must be tried in open court.

$5,000 IN WAR SAVING STAMPS FOR ONE PERSON

Washington, Nov. 2.—An amendment to the tax bill providing that one individual may purchase as much as $5,000 worth of War Saving Stamps, instead of being restricted to $1,interest worth, as at present, was adopted by the Senate today, without a record vote. The amendment was recommended by the Treasury Department.

BALFOUR STARTS ON JOURNEY TO WASHINGTON

London, Nov. 2.—A. J. Balfour, head of the British delegation to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions, left London at 9:30 o'clock this morning for Liverpool. He will embark in that city this afternoon on the liner Empress of France for Quebec, from which city he will go direct to Washington.



No, Indeed!

I am not going to be silly enough to advise girls on How to Break Into the Movies, but I do want my friends to know that the Boston Daily Advertiser is about to give away $5,000 to those who know the movie players.

An Identity Contest.

The Boston Advertiser—daily and Sunday—will print the pictures of one hundred and twenty players and ask you to identify them.

Two pictures each day for sixty days.

No masks! The photographs, exactly as they come from the studio.

Can there be any well known movie player whom you would not know at sight?

That's what I thought.

Get today's Boston Daily Advertiser for the details. My picture will be in the Contest, so there's one you've got to start with.

Lovingly,

YOUR FRIEND

'Smutty' Plays Wanted by American Public, Brady Says

By International News Service.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—"America has no taste for uplift in drama. Our people don't want good plays. They want smutty things."

William A. Brady, New York producer, made this comment today in announcing that "The Skin Game"—by John Galsworthy, which opened here Monday night, will close Saturday. Last night's performance drew a little more than $400 in receipts.

"The people prefer something in the farce line like 'Getting Gertie's Garter,' 'Ladies' Night,' or 'The Demi-Virgin,'" Brady continued. "The drama in America is degenerating."

SEVEN MILLION CHILDREN FACE STARVATION

Hoover Tells Congress That Russian Situation Holds Danger to America

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Nearly 7,000,000 Russian children in the Volga regions are facing starvation, Secretary of Commerce Hoover declared today before the House Military Affairs Committee.

Less than 1,400,000 of these children can be cared for by American relief efforts, the Secretary said, although it is hoped that by January the number can be increased to 2,000,000. It will not be possible to afford relief to adults.

Declaring that this situation holds a "danger to America" in the possibility of spread of cholera and other diseases, the Secretary urged that Congress authorize the donation of surplus army medicine and clothing for Russian relief.

TWO HURT BY 18-FOOT FALL IN DORCHESTER

Two Newton men were seriously injured today while shingling a house at No. 41 Waldeck street, Dorchester. The two men were hurled eighteen feet to the ground. The men are James W. Buckley, twenty-one years old, of No. 18 Crescent street, Newton, and Thomas A. Herbert, twenty-seven years old, of No. 19 Daiby street, Newton. Both are at the City Hospital. Buckley is suffering from possible fracture of the skull and multiple bruises, and Herbert has a fractured left thigh and multiple bruises.

INSURANCE RATES COME DOWN IN BOSTON

The new high-pressure water system installed in the Boston department has been recognized as a most valuable fire preventive by the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters, and will shortly cause fire insurance rates here to drop. This announcement was made today from the office of the president of the board at No. 55 Kilby street. A general reduction expressed by a flat percentage cannot be made, the statement says, but it is held likely that whatever remains of the advance in rates made following the San Francisco conflagration will be removed.

ACCUSES SPA OF EVADING HEALTH REGULATIONS

Thompson's Threatened With Prosecution by Deputy Commissioner Mullowney

Thompson's Spa, where hundreds of Bostonians lunch daily, is to be prosecuted for maintaining conditions alleged to be unsanitary.

Deputy Health Commissioner P. H. Mullowney delivered that ultimatum today and added that no restaurant system was above the law.

Mullowney's statement was the aftermath of a stormy meeting of the City Health Department yesterday when he precipitated trouble by announcing that certain restaurants were evading health regulations and exposing food without any covering.

His particular objection to Thompson's Spa was that pies and doughnuts are exposed on the counters, in such a way that he says anybody may breathe on them and spread disease germs.

At yesterday's meeting John P. Wright appeared as attorney for Thompson's Spa and declared that restaurant was in a class by itself and did not come under regulations governing bakeries and ordinary restaurants.

"There is no restaurant system or lunch system bigger than the law," said Dr. Mullowney today.

G. B. Philbrick, a chemist retained by Thompson's Spa, stated yesterday that the food exposed on the counters was in such a position that patrons would not be able to breathe on it or contaminate it.

Dr. Mullowney countered that he did not attach much importance or significance to the statement of the paid chemist of a food shop.

RHODE ISLAND BOY KILLED AS GUN GOES OFF

Portsmouth, R. I., Nov. 2.—Reginald H. Monroe, eighteen years old, of this town, was killed when his shotgun was accidentally discharged while he was climbing over a stone fence near Third Beach. The young man had left his home on a hunting trip and when he did not return the searching party started out. His body was found at one side of the stone wall and the gun was lying almost on the other side with an empty shell in the chamber.

28,000 MEN IDLE AT MINES IN INDIANA

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 2.—Practically all of the 28,000 miners in District No. 11, comprising most of the Indiana coal fields and employing 24,000 men, were idle today, according to reports reaching Terre Haute, for no strike order has yet been issued by district officers.

The remaining mines will close tomorrow, reports indicate, as the result of against Federal Judge Anderson's injunction decree.

ENGLAND NOT TO OFFER "NEW 2 R-2" TO U. S.

London, Nov. 2.—Official announcement was made in the House of Commons today that Great Britain will not offer the United States another dirigible balloon to replace the ZR-2, which was destroyed during a trial flight. The United States had purchased the ZR-2 from England, but the airship had not been formally turned over when the disaster occurred.

$35,000 BLAZE IN STORE AT TAUNTON

Taunton, Nov. 2.—The entire stock of the Union Ladies Skirt and Dress Manufacturing Company, valued at over $35,000, was destroyed in a two-alarm fire that swept through the company's establishment at No. 13 Pleasant street early today. Firemen confined the flames to upper floors and enabled a garage company which occupied the first floor to save $100,000 worth of cars.

CHELSEA MAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BY SHOOTING

Philip Simon, twenty-nine years old, of No. 207 Chestnut street, Chelsea, is at the Chelsea Memorial Hospital in a serious condition as the result of attempting to kill himself with a revolver in his home. He shot himself through the forehead.

Simon, who is a dry goods salesman, left a note to his wife, telling her not to worry and asking to be laid at rest beside her sister.

Heiress and Boy Millionaire May Wed When Divorced

JESSIE REED

"Follies" girl now in Boston, marriage to whom her boy millionaire husband would annul.

DAN CASWELL

Young Croesus of Cleveland, friend son of Jesse Reed, who hints at possible marriage with Mrs. Fagan.

"DICK" FAGAN AND WIFE

The girl bride and heiress to $15,000,000 may marry Dan Caswell, after she is divorced for her Dartmouth student spouse, and Caswell obtains annulment of his own marriage.

Dan Caswell Hints at Romance With Mrs. Fagan After Both Are Free

Rumor has been persistent of late in Boston and New York that Mrs. Katherine Stevens Fagan, eighteen-year-old bride of "Dick" Fagan of Dartmouth, and chief heir to her father's fortune of $15,000,000, will marry Daniel Ovis Caswell, boy millionaire of Cleveland, as soon as each secures a divorce.

Both deny that they will be engaged when they unravel their snarled marital affairs, but "Dan" Caswell, who is in Boston arranging for annulment of his marriage to Jessie Reed, a Zeigfeld "Follies" beauty, now playing at a local theatre, today admitted that an alliance with pretty Kate Fagan was "within the realms of future possibilities."

He would not make it stronger than that although he confessed that he had spent much time in "Kate's" company recently in New York and that he liked her very much.

"Talk of an engagement is premature," added Caswell. "Society chatter. Folks got to have something to talk about and I seem to have been the goat in that line for a year. I'm not making any more matrimonial plans until I get my present one ironed out.

"Kate Fagan is a nice girl. I like her a lot and it's true that I have been with her a great deal of late, but we're just good pals. I don't know what the future may develop. She'd make a fine wife and if both of us were free it wouldn't be beyond the realm of possibility.

SAYS HE WAS DECEIVED.

"Kate would have something to say about that, however. No. We're just friends. In the same boat at present. She's been separated from "Dick" Fagan for months. Broke up almost before their honeymoon was over. Romance blossomed and faded within three months. They eloped and were married in Hanover, N. H., in April last. Agreed to disagree within a few weeks.

"I'm here to prepare for annulment of my marriage to Jessie Reed, who did not tell me that she had a husband before I married her or that she is the mother of a seven-year-old daughter. She stated on the marriage license that it was her first marriage and that she was twenty-two years of age when she was really twenty-eight. I was twenty-one at the time. We were married in Pawtucket a year ago yesterday after a day's courtship.

BREAKFASTS WITH JESSIE.

"It is true that I attended a Hallowe'en party with her party from the theatre at the Lenox Monday night and that we breakfasted together yesterday. I went from the Copley-Plaza where I am staying to the Lenox where she is stopping, for breakfast, at noon.

"She tried to persuade me to agree to a reconciliation, but I refused. No more stage celebrities for me. My next wife will be a home type of girl—if I marry.

"How did Virginia Van Sant of St. Paul feel about my marriage to Jessie Reed? She learned of it by accident in a most dramatic way. It was just after the movies. After Jessie and I eloped from Boston to Pawtucket and were married we continued on to New York. We were with a party of friends at the Palais Royal when dining came Virginia Van Sant, with a party of friends.

JILTED FIANCEE MEETS WIFE.

"As Virginia passed our table she said, 'Thank you, Dan, for sending that lovely box of candy.'

"Jessie looked up with surprise and asked who that was. You can imagine how I felt. There was nothing for me to do but to introduce them. "I said, 'Virginia, let me present my wife.' I felt like dropping through the floor.

"Virginia looked dumbfounded and passed on.

"You see, I had everything arranged to elope with Virginia within a few days. She was a student at Hemsley Hall, a private school in Greenwich, Ct., at the time. The girls there never have a chance to read the newspapers, so she hadn't seen anything about my marriage to Jessie Reed before I told it to her in person.

GAVE HER VIRGINIA'S RING.

"I had gone to New York the Saturday evening and bought a ring for Virginia. I placed it in the safe at the Copley-Plaza in Boston on my return and Jessie Reed had it on the following Monday morning. I met Jessie on the train coming from New York but was not introduced to her until Sunday, dined with her on Monday, proposed, gave her Virginia's ring and we eloped and were married.

"Virginia Van Sant is the daughter of the former Governor of Minnesota. She lives in St. Paul. She is eighteen. It was rough on her, but I was simply infatuated by Jessie Reed and forgot everything else at the time. You know what capers I cut up in Boston a year ago. I shall institute annulment proceedings in New York through my personal attorney without delay.

"I came to Boston and shall visit Pawtucket in quest of certain records which I shall give to my counsel. I am setting on my own initiative in this and am not prompted by any of my relatives.

LEARNS OF FIRST HUSBAND.

"I have not contributed a cent to the support of my wife since we were separated months ago, after I learned through the newspapers that she had been divorced from a vaudeville actor named Debrow, whom she married in her home town, Houston, Texas, and who induced her to go on the stage with him."

Katherine Stevens Fagan, wife of "Dick" Fagan, whose name has been linked so conspicuously with that of young Caswell recently, is the daughter of the late Calvin Stevens, eccentric Broad street broker, who amassed a fortune of $15,000,000. She is the son of William Fagan, a wealthy New York broker, who lives at No. 1 West 36th street, and has an office at No. 49 Beaver street.

Mrs. Calvin Amory Stevens, mother of Mrs. Fagan, who with her children inherited the $15,000,000 fortune of her deceased husband, opposed her daughter's marriage to "Dick" Fagan as did Fagan's parents on the ground that they were too young, each being eighteen years of age.

Mr. Caswell is the son of the late Daniel A. Caswell, millionaire real estate broker of Cleveland, O.

LEGION RENEWS DEMAND FOR BONUS

Resolution Opposing Liberty for Debs Is Adopted, Delegates Shouting Approval

By International News Service.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—The Legion convention adopted a resolution reaffirming the attitude taken by the last national convention at Cleveland relative to adjusted compensation.

The resolution reviewed the history of the tentative bonus legislation heretofore sponsored by the Legion, which culminated in the Sweet bill, passed by the House of Representatives and rejected by the Senate upon the recommendation of the President.

Then the resolution reaffirmed the Legion's stand in favoring the passage of legislation providing the same sort of adjusted compensation which the Sweet bill provided.

The Americanization committee's report was adopted by section. One clause urging that clemency be not given Eugene V. Debs, serving a sentence in the Federal Prison at Atlanta, for violations of wartime laws, was adopted amid cheers, the convention rising and shouting approval.

Iowa Man Is Strong Favorite for Legion Chief

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—Hanford MacNider of Iowa was the strong favorite for national commander of American Legion when the last session of the convention opened today.

Two years ago he ran second to Past Commander Roller of Minneapolis, and last year he ran next to Commander Galbraith. MacNider refused to consider being a candidate until early today, after a conference had been held by nine of the biggest delegations.

The States in conference which rallied upon MacNider to enter the lists were New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New Jersey, California, New Hampshire and Iowa. A complete canvas of the delegates made before adjournment of the conference and opening of the convention indicated that MacNider was in the lead. Enough States with favorite sons with no chance of winning are expected to swing to MacNider on the second ballot to insure his election.

The Massachusetts delegation is working harder today for Raymond O. Brackett or Archibald Fay for vice-commander than yesterday, and his chances look brighter. A block of Southern votes were promised Brackett today.

Kansas City had a thousand refuse cans on street corners when the Legionaires arrived here. They are being painted and will have been using them as drums and are going to take them home as souvenirs.

ARREST FRUIT DEALER ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Sergeant Harry T. Grace of the Joy street station, in charge of the police officer in plain clothes into the fruit shop recently opened on Court street by Salvatore Manoli, today, and after the sailor had purchased a drink arrested the proprietor. Manoli told the police, they say, that he had been informed by some "politicians" to go ahead and that there would be no trouble so long as he did not go too strong on the booze. In the Municipal court Manoli at first pleaded guilty but when an attorney stepped forward and said that he had been sent to do the case Manoli changed his plea to not guilty. The case was continued until November 8.

POLICEMAN GETS CLEW AS HE PLAYS PIANO

Mrs. Annie Woyschenofsky, of Wall street, today paid a fine of $50 in the Municipal Court because Patrolman James Leonard likes to play the piano. Leonard and other officers went to the Wall street house with warrants and ordered them to search the place for liquor. While the others were looking around Leonard played on the upright piano. The notes sounded a bit flat to his ear. He investigated and found a gallon jug of whiskey hidden in the back of the instrument. Mrs. Woloschenofsky told Judge Wentworth she could not guess how the stuff got there, as she had had the piano for six years and had not unscrewed the back in all that time.

JOFFRE STARTS NOV. 11 ON TRIP AROUND WORLD

Paris, Nov. 2.—Marshal Joffre, who sails from Marseilles on Nov. 11 for a trip around the world, will reach Seattle, Washington, sometime in March, it was calculated at the foreign office today. It was said he might visit some Canadian points, returning to France by way of New York.

COSMOPOLITAN SUIT UP TO SUPREME COURT

The $3,000,000 suit brought by the Cosmopolitan Trust Company against the directors of that company to recover money lost on Cosmopolitan "securities" was today referred to the full bench of the Supreme Court by Supreme Court Justice Braley. The trust company brought the suit in behalf of savings and commercial depositors.

HARDING OBSERVES 56TH BIRTHDAY QUIETLY

Washington, Nov. 2.—President Harding celebrated his fifty-sixth birthday today quietly at the White House, no special program having been arranged for the occasion. Scores of congratulatory letters and telegrams were received during the day from friends throughout this country, and many from abroad.

One of the first congratulatory messages to be received by the President was from King George of England.

LOCKLIN ADMITS FORGERY IN WOBURN

Sensational Trial Expected for Man Accused of Victimizing Many Banks

Arthur W. Locklin, suspected by the police of having stolen $40,000 from Greater Boston banks by forgery and falsification of checks, pleaded guilty to forgery in Woburn District Court today.

Judge Johnson, who heard the testimony, scored the laxity of Boston banks, as illustrated in the case of Locklin.

The defendant was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury, and his trial is expected to result in sensational revelations.

Locklin pleaded guilty to uttering a forged check for $12 on the Tannes National Bank in Woburn. It was signed "L. M. Carlson."

According to the police, Locklin ran away when a paying teller went to the rear of the store to telephone the police.

The banks he is victimized with worthless checks, according to the authorities, include: The Waltham Trust Company, the Newton Trust Company, the Conrad, Harvard, and Guarantee Trust Companies of Cambridge, the Arlington Trust Company, the Somerville Trust Company, the Wakefield Trust Company, the Quincy Trust Company, the Melrose Trust Company, the Lexington Trust Company, the Everett Trust Company, the Chelsea Trust Company, the Peabody Trust Company, the Lynn Trust Company, the Wakefield Trust Company, the Boylston National Bank, the Winthrop Trust Company and the International Trust Company.

Locklin, according to the police, said the "banks were easy." He is a native of Montpelier, Vt.

DRIVER BLAMED IN DEATH OF WELLESLEY STUDENT

The death of Miss Margaret Preston, Wellesley College student, who died on October 17 as a result of injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile near the college grounds, is laid to the "negligence, lack of care and reckless behavior" of the unidentified operator of the machine that hit her, in the finding of an inquest filed today by Associate Justice Bancroft in the Dedham Superior Court.

The report shows that, while the car was not traveling at a fast rate of speed when the accident occurred, the driver hastened to swerve it out of town, despite the fact that Miss Preston's body was carried on the fender of the car for several yards. The number of the machine was not taken.

Miss Preston was riding a bicycle near the college gymnasium when the accident occurred.

MANSFIELD, VISCOUNT OF SANDHURST, DEAD

London, Nov. 2.—William Mansfield, First Viscount of Sandhurst, is dead. He was born in 1835 and was educated at Eton. He entered the British army as a sub-lieutenant of the Coldstream Guards in 1852, and became Under-Secretary for War in 1886. This office he again held for two years from 1892 to 1894. Viscount Sandhurst was appointed Governor of Bombay in 1895 and held office until 1899.

SERUM DEATH FOR RATS GETS TRYOUT

New York, Nov. 2.—An endless chain of death is being prepared for the rat population of New York, the city health department announced today. A half-dozen of the city's 6,000,000 rats will be inoculated, it was explained, with a serum which will cause their death shortly after they have been released to return to their fellows. Experts say the carcasses will be eaten by other rats. These, in turn, will die and provide poison material for the next links in the endless chain, it is claimed.

BUENOS AIRES STUDENTS DECLARE SACCO STRIKE

Buenos Aires, Nov. 2.—Students at the medical school of the National College at La Plata went on strike Monday as a protest against the conviction of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti in a Massachusetts court, where they were accused of murder. The students refrained from attending class during the day.

SAVE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS IN CASE OF BLANTON

Danger in Any Action Beyond That of Censure, Says Norman Hapgood

By NORMAN HAPGOOD

Staff Correspondent of the Boston American

Washington, Nov. 2—When the House of Representatives refused to unseat Mr. Blanton of Texas it decided by a narrow margin to take a disastrous step. And a few of the speeches in opposition to the removal showed a touch of statesmanship.

There is nothing to be said in favor of Mr. Blanton. That makes the case all the more interesting from the point of view of a historical precedent. The leading case in all history, that of John Wilkes, was one in which there was not much to say for the individual whom the King of England and the House of Commons were unable to keep permanently out of a seat.

The faults of Mr. Blanton are excessive. He is such a rabid hater of labor unions that he foams at the mouth whenever they are concerned. He loses all perspective. He thinks he is Sir Galahad, a chivalrous knight called upon to protect the most sacred of causes.

And he is a frightful waster of the time of his colleagues. At the last session the time he consumed in insisting on roll calls amounted to four solid working days. Again he imagined he was a brave and noble hero standing on principle.

PEOPLE STILL RULE.

Nobody believes that when Blanton put indecent remarks into the Congressional Record he was inserting them because they were indecent. He inserted them simply because they happened to be spoken by a member of a labor union and Blanton could not miss a trick in his holy cause of persecuting the unions.

The exclusion of these remarks from the record and the formal and unanimous censure of the House, which was the punishment finally visited on the offender, was the proper punishment. It maintained the principles of debate. It sufficiently punished the offender and it did not interfere with the God-given right of the people of Texas to send any kind of a crank they like to represent them in the national legislature.

The speeches in favor of expulsion contained a good deal that was bombastic and hypocritical. They sounded as if the speakers believed that every home in the country was about to totter on its foundations; as if every young lady in the country was a persistent reader of the Congressional record.

There are weekly newspapers in England that circulate entirely on printing scandalous matter brought out in court. Some of these papers have as much as two million circulation. Before such real evils as that Mr. Blanton's ability to get the record turned into a popular scandalous daily is slight.

LYON ON WILKES CASE.

Mr. Luce of Massachusetts said, speaking of John Wilkes: "In 1763, for attacking the government in that famous No. 64 of the North Briton, he had been sent to the Tower. Soon after his release he printed a little book containing a parody on Pope's essay on man, a paraphrase of the Veni Creator and other poems.

"The government learned of these and proceeded to use them as a weapon with which it meant to crush Wilkes. In 1769 they were advanced as one of three reasons why he should be expelled from the House of Commons. In the essay on woman he had written, or at any rate printed, what, according to contemporary judgment, was the most indecent and blasphemous poem ever written.

"Nevertheless, the working men of London refused to be distracted by these side issues, and in the end they beat down the King and the House and established their right to send to Parliament any kind of a blackguard they might happen to favor."

Senator Newberry is sitting and voting in the Senate of the United States. Unhappily the kind of mind that can blossom into turgid poetry in defence of morality, when a foolish indiscretion by a Texas crank is concerned, is not at all worried by the smugness with which the Senate allows the laws against the use of money in elections to be circumvented.

The cases of the Socialist aldermen in New York City, of the Socialist Assemblymen at Albany, show that the right of the people to choose their own representatives, supposed to have been settled in the Wilkes case a hundred and fifty years ago, is in serious danger of being circumvented today.

The men in the House of Representatives who saved Blanton from expulsion did it not because they had any respect for him, but because they did have respect for representative institutions.

POLICE STOP CHINESE FROM LEAVING SHIP

Fourteen Chinese sailors on the steamship Newcastle at Pier No. 2 kept the East Boston police busy when the sailormen attempted to leave their ship, despite restrictions of the immigration law.

Sergeant James Lewis and five policemen were summoned hurriedly to the pier.

The sergeant explained that coolies are not permitted to land in the United States, even when seamen.

The Chinese were quieted, but later broke out again and did not subside until warned that they faced the jail unless they kept quiet.

SUSAN BRANDEIS WILL AID BUILDING PROBE

Miss Susan Brandeis, daughter of United States Supreme Court Justice Brandeis, has been appointed a special assistant to Colonel William Hayward, U. S. District Attorney in New York city, according to dispatches received here today. She will aid in the Federal investigation of the building trades monopoly.

Since her graduation from the University of Chicago Law School, Miss Brandeis has been living in Washington. A part of each summer, however, she spends at her father's estate in Dedham.

CAMBRIDGE STILL HOLDS UP "THREE-DECKERS"

A public hearing on the question of amending the building laws in the city of Cambridge to allow of the erection of three-story wooden dwellings as a measure to relieve the housing shortage was held by the Cambridge City Council. The matter was referred back to the sub-committee on ordinances for reconsideration.

Opponents of the measure declared that these "three-deckers" constitute a fire menace. A report of the city planning board stated that a three-story wooden building properly constructed was not dangerous.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively but their action is gentle and safe, instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective results. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

Book Test Will Furnish Chance for Thinkers

Do YOU like the sort of amusement that once upon a time was called the "picture puzzle"?

Get ready for the Boston American's Book Title Picture Test, which begins next Monday.

Sixty pictures, one daily for sixty days not counting Sundays.

Each picture representing the title of a well known book.

The Boston American will distribute $5,000 in cash awards among the two hundred and nineteen readers who apply the correct titles to the largest numbers of pictures.

The artist is putting the finishing touches to his work. He has been given sixty titles to illustrate. This he will do in his own way. He will not make the titles TOO plain. It will not be a kindergarten affair. But the titles will be there.

The First Award will be $1,000, the second $750, the third $600.

There will be other awards of $400, $300, $200, $150, $100 and $50.

One hundred of $10 and one hundred and ten of $5 each.

At just the time of year when we are all glad to pick up a little pin money.

Picture No. 1 next Monday.

You know the mystic sign to give Mr. Newsdealer.

RAT IN HER CELL BADLY SCARES MRS. BIRD

Woman Held in Brockton Shooting Goes Into Hysterics When Animal Appears

Brockton, Nov. 2—Pretty Mrs. Frances Bird, who is being held in jail here in default of $10,000 bail on charges of assault with intent to kill was thrown into a fit of hysterical screaming and writhing when a large rat entered her cell.

Guards, hearing her outcry, rushed down the corridor in the fear that she had attempted suicide. They found her wildly attempting to climb the side of the cell and pointing fearfully to the rat.

Later, the animal again returned, causing a repetition of the screams and frantic efforts to escape.

The name of Mrs. Bird's alleged victim, Arthur C. Bates, is still on the danger list in the Brockton Hospital. Mrs. Bird's case will doubtless be continued until his fate is settled.

Police declare that bad feeling has long existed between Bird and Bates, due to the latter's alleged attentions to Bird's wife. On several occasions, it is charged, the two came to blows. Bird has as yet been unable to procure bail for his wife.

WOULD LEGALIZE BEER TO PAY VETERANS' BONUS

Washington, Nov. 2.—A bill to legalize and place a 4 per cent. tax on beer and light wines to be used in defraying the cost of a soldiers' bonus has been drafted by Representative Newman, Republican, Michigan, and will be presented to Congress, he announced today, as soon as the American Legion convention at Kansas City has acted on the bonus question.

GIRLS! GROW THICK LONG, HEAVY HAIR WITH "DANDERINE"

Buy a 35-cent bottle of "Danderine." One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

MILK DEALERS REJECT OFFER OF HYLAN

Employers Determined "Open Shop" Shall Result From New York Strike

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 2.—Citizens of the metropolitan area rose again this morning to breakfast without milk and cream on the second day of the milk handlers' strike, with slight prospects of a strike settlement in sight. Except for deliveries by small distributing companies the milk delivery system continued in a state of paralysis.

Representatives of the employers' organization, the milk conference board, and milk wagon drivers' union were called to the office of Mayor Hylan to discuss possible terms of settlement. Both sides expressed little hope of reaching a settlement.

The employers, in reply to a request by Mayor Hylan to arbitrate the demands of the drivers for a $5 weekly increase and two weeks' vacation with pay, in case today's conference came to nothing, refused, asserting any arbitration must include the questions of an "open shop" policy and a reduction of wages, provided by the contract which expired on November 1. They reiterated their intention of establishing the open shop.

The employes at a mass meeting tonight were to vote on the question of arbitration.

Two of the largest corporations announced plans for establishing neighborhood distributing stations today. Up to this morning milk was available only at railroad terminals and at some of the smaller distributing agencies, the only exceptions being in the cases of hospitals, dispensaries and nurseries, which the striking drivers kept supplied.

Several cases of violence were reported to the police. Three men were arrested after they were said to have stoned a driver of a truck with a supply of milk for hospitals. The policeman who made the arrests held back a crowd of 500 with his revolver.

Cleveland Also Has Milk Strike

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 2.—Hundreds of thousands of people of Greater Cleveland were without milk today as a result of the failure of between 750 and 800 drivers of the Telling-Belle Vernon and subsidiary companies to report for work.

The men went on strike at midnight following a vote by members of the Milk and Ice Cream Wagon Drivers', Chauffeurs' and Helpers' Union after a break in negotiations for a new wage scale, which had been going on since October 1, when the companies announced a reduction of $5.50 in the weekly wages, which averaged $35.

Pope Weeps as Nansen Recounts Horrors of Russian Famine

By International News Service.

Rome, Nov. 2.—Pope Benedict wept today as he listened to description of the horrors in famine swept Russia. He is contemplating a new appeal to the Christian world to save Russia from death.

The Pontiff received in audience Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the International Committee for the Relief of Russia. Dr. Nansen had called to thank the Pope for his gift of 1,000,000 lire to the Russian aid fund.

During the course of the conversation Dr. Nansen described for the Pontiff some of the scenes he had witnessed in the starvation zones and the Pope could not keep back his tears.

SENATORS FIGHT SECRECY AT ARMS PARLEY

Demand That Fullest Publicity Be Given to All Sessions of the Conference

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Senators who are urging that the fullest publicity be given to the conference on limitation of armament and Far Eastern problems were aroused today by semi-official advices reaching them that public or open sessions of the conference will be few and far between.

They declared they were prepared to protest vigorously if it developed that while the opening session will probably be public those thereafter will be mostly closed, or secret, except for an occasional open one intended to satisfy public opinion.

Senator Borah said:

"I shall never believe the conference will be held in secret at any time until the doors are closed upon the public. The report that the conference will be held largely behind closed doors seems incredible to me."

Senator La Follette said: "I am loath to believe that anyone is contemplating secret sessions of the conference, but if it should prove true that the conference is to be held chiefly behind closed doors then there will be at least several of us in the Senate who will be found hammering hard upon those doors."

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts said:

"The American people might as well abandon all hope of any successful settlement of the grave international questions which the conference has been called to consider, if its sessions are not to be public and all of the speeches, arguments, contentions, deliberations, decisions and votes which occur at it are not given the fullest publicity, and subjected to the completest scrutiny of the peoples of the entire world."

Senators Johnson, Capper and Ladd also added their protests.

MAN AND GIRL HE WED MAY BE DEPORTED

Authorities Charge Taylor Already Had Wife When He Married Miss Hopewell

Unless the Secretary of Labor takes a different view of his case from that held by the New York immigration officials Francis A. Taylor of this city will have to go back to England to explain how he came to marry pretty Phyllis Hopewell, a young English girl, while he has another wife living and undivorced.

When Miss Hopewell, who was registered on the passenger lists of the steamer that brought her to these shores as Mrs. Phyllis Taylor, arrived at Ellis Island she was met by Taylor, who had gone there from Boston, and the pair were about to leave the station when Taylor was confronted with proof of his other marriage.

The Boston man is said to have admitted to the immigration authorities that he had married Mrs. Charlotte Wilson Taylor and that this wife was alive and undivorced when he married Miss Hopewell at Birkenhead, outside of Liverpool, on May 21, 1921.

He explained that he had that latter ceremony performed so he could get the young woman into this country without trouble.

Miss Hopewell was sent back to the detention rooms of the Ellis Island station, and Taylor was held pending the action of the Department of Labor on his case. Full reports of the affair have been forwarded to Washington, and it is expected that a warrant of deportation will be issued for both man and woman.

LICENSE NEEDED TO "BOB" WOMEN'S HAIR

Hartford, Nov. 1.—"Bobbed" hair for women will be officially recognized by the State of Connecticut next Monday. The barbers' commission will hold examinations of applicants for barbers licenses and to the list of qualifications will be added that of properly "bobbing" hair. The scope of the examination was extended to include "bobbing" when the Attorney-General gave the commission the oral opinion that the operation may be done only by licensed barbers.

For Raw Sore Throat

At the first sign of a raw, sore throat rub on a little Musterole with your fingers.

It goes right to the spot with a gentle tingle, loosens congestion, draws out soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It has all the strength of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use. 35 and 65 cents in jars and tubes; hospital size, $2.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.—Advertisement.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Advertisement.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

THE last production George Loane Tucker made before his death in Hollywood, some weeks ago, is playing at the Park Theatre. It is "Ladies Must Live," which he adapted and directed from the story of that name by Alice Duer Miller. "Ladies Must Live" is a disappointment after his "Miracle Man," but even at that it is above the average film put out by the average producer.

There is much to be said in favor of the picture, as well as much to be said against it. The story is a good one, the direction is good, and some of the playing is good. On the other hand, there is too much moral dragged in by the heels, parts of the picture are long-drawn-out, and some of the playing is extremely poor. Taken all in all, there is something substantially old-fashioned about "Ladies Must Live," too substantial and too old-fashioned. Mrs. Miller, has simply put a George Elliot story into a modern setting and clothed it in up-to-date evening clothes.

The point of the film is this: Ladies must live. Some do it one way, some another, and others still another. There is a fundamentally good idea in the plot, Mrs. Miller has taken four types of "ladies"—a weak-willed one, a clever one, a sheltered one who has her life "set" for her by others, and an unscrupulous one who doesn't care what she does to live. The only difficulty is that the audience gets tired of jumping from the story of one to the story of another, even though they are somewhat linked together.

BETTY COMPSON

Betty Compson by no means comes up to her work in the former Tucker film. To do her justice, I may add that the part of Christine in this picture doesn't give her the scope that Rose did in "The Miracle Man." It would seem, however, that she might pose less and feel more.

Mahlon Hamilton has done better work than he does in "Ladies Must Live." He has more or less of a thankless role, but villains must live, too. He doesn't seem to want to be villainous. Unusually good work is done by two actresses of the company. I don't recall their names as the cast, which was a long one, was flashed on the screen all at once. They should, however, be given credit. One plays the role of Barbara, the clever girl, and the other is the unscrupulous one who is out for all she can get at any cost.

The leading man starts out promisingly, but fails to keep up his pace. His name, too, I have forgotten. The continuity, by Mr. Tucker, is necessarily choppy. It would have to be, jumping about between four phases of a story. The direction is very fair, though in no way unusual.

Tom Moore and Rupert Hughes

The companion picture on the bill is the Goldwyn production, "From the Ground Up," a Rupert Hughes story starring Tom Moore. The story is an unusual one, Hughes' always are, but it is not convincing. Tom Moore's character of the race-terization of the Irishman, Terence Gilluley, is what "puts the film over."

TOM MOORE

Moore gets every bit of humanness and humor out of the story. He evidently delights in his role and succeeds in delighting everyone else with it. He even succeeds in making it plausible. On the other hand, if you think it over calmly afterwards you realize how absurd the plot is.

Helene Chadwick is seen as the daughter of a millionaire. Moore is a laborer digging out the foundations for the millionaire's building. The millionaire loses his money. Terence makes some. When he becomes a contractor "on his own," he advertises for a stenographer, and Helene applies for the job, just as everyone expected she would. She didn't get it. She becomes Mrs. Terence instead.

There is something a trifle too tonelessabout the plot and subtitles. Though Moore's smile seems to put "pep" into them. Hughes is a splendid writer and and one who brings out the characteristics of Americans much as Booth Tarkington does. He is quite typical—that is, his characters and their doings are.

HULL TELLS HIS PLANS TO HELP DEMOCRATS

Publicity Bureau to Gather Facts Regarding G. O. P. "Shortcomings"

St. Louis, Nov. 2. (By the Associated Press).—Development of the Democratic National Committee into "the most militant efficient organization" within his capacity and dissemination of facts concerning the "shortcomings" of the present national administration among "the average citizens" is in brief to be the policy of Cordell Hull, the new Democratic chairman, as outlined today to the Associated Press.

Mr. Hull expects to leave today for Washington, arriving there tomorrow evening. The new chairman's policies are briefly outlined in the following statement:

"The first step in administering the affairs of the committee will be to pay off the present indebtedness and create a good atmosphere in which to work.

"We shall proceed at once with establishment of a systematic and thorough organization in the various States and counties. In this same connection, we shall strive to maintain an efficient publicity bureau to get unbiased and accurate facts relating to the shortcomings of the Republican administration before the average citizens.

"People have been fed up on a vast amount of misrepresentation, misinformation and falsehoods concerning the true record of the Democratic administration, covering the period since 1918. Subsequent events and daily happenings have exploded a vast number of these falsehoods, which at times were very dangerous."

Massachusetts Leads in School Attendance of Children 7 to 13

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The "school population" of the United States is 33,250,876, the census bureau today announced. Of this number, comprising citizens 5 to 20 years old, more than 21,370,000 were attending school between September, 1919, and January, 1920, when the census was taken.

Utah apparently is the most studious State, 73 per cent. of her citizens eligible by age being registered in schools. Massachusetts leads in the 7 to 13 year group, with 96.1 per cent, and Louisiana comes last with 75.9 per cent.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS AT NEW BRITAIN, CT.

New Britain, Ct., Nov. 2.—The building of the New Britain Herald was partly burned early today. Temporarily the Herald will be issued from the plant of the Hartford Courant. The loss to the Herald Publishing Company, it is thought, will be $100,000. Mr. Johnstone Vance, editor, said that it had not been learned how the fire started.

HUB RED CROSS TO DRIVE FOR $200,000

Campaign Starts Armistice Day and Concludes With Roll Call Thanksgiving

A drive for $200,000 to carry on the work will be started Armistice Day by the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross, and will be continued during the annual rollcall, which will last until Thanksgiving.

Boston and the adjoining cities included in the chapter's field will be asked to contribute this sum, according to a formal announcement made at headquarters today.

A committee composed of many of the most prominent business men of the city has been appointed, and it is already at work preparing plans for the drive.

The funds at the disposal of the chapter have been virtually expended in the work during the last year. Of the amount to be raised a fixed portion goes to the national organization for carrying on foreign relief work.

Organization for the roll call has been completed and the enrollment of volunteer workers has been started at headquarters, No. 145 Berkeley street, under the direction of Miss Lavinia H. Newell, chairman of the chapter.

The advisory committee is made up of James Jackson, State Treasurer; Rev. Michael J. Scanlon, Francis Gray, A. C. Ratshesky and Walter C. Baylies.

The chapter also announced that it would join the Boston City Federation of Women's Clubs and the Boston League of Women Voters in a canvass of the city on the question:

"Will you stand by the Red Cross by membership and contribution to the fund, are you a registered voter, and will you sign a petition for reduction in armaments by international agreement?"

Colonial Barroom of Stone Unearthed at Grape Juice Centre

By International News Service.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Workmen excavating to place electrical conduits in Westfield, west of here, today unearthed a Colonial stone barroom. Hundreds of curiously-shaped rum bottles were found. Labels on a few indicate they had been filled at distilleries over a century ago.

History of Westfield, the grape-juice manufacturing centre of America, indicates there were three saloons conducted in the cellars of general stores there over a century ago. The barrooms were in the cellars to keep the taxable part of the business separate.

properly prepared there is no more delicious fruit-food than SUNSWEET

California's Nature-Flavored Prunes

—your grocer has them

—the right way:

Prunes, says a famous home-cooking expert, should be soaked in warm water to cover, several hours or overnight if possible. Rapid cooking destroys the flavor and appearance of the fruit. Slow cooking develops the natural fruit sugars so that little if any sugar is required. Heat to simmering point only, cooking until prunes are tender. A fireless cooker is excellent for cooking prunes. Soak fruit, heat to boiling point and set in the fireless cooker for several hours.

Stewed or baked:

Heat Sunsweet Prunes slowly in water in which they were soaked. Cook under boiling point until fruit is tender. If sugar is used, add after prunes are cooked but while hot; or remove prunes, add sugar to juice and cook until thick. To bake, put soaked prunes and water in which they were soaked in a casserole or bean pot. Cover and cook in a slow oven until fruit is tender. No sugar is required. Juvenile Jam Makers Amaze Exposition Crowd

Public look on in wonder while youngsters make perfect jams and jellies with the utmost ease in a few minutes by the new Certo process

Unusual interest was displayed in the demonstration by children at the recent Springfield, Mass., Exposition and throngs daily gathered round and marvelled at the facility with which even quite young girls made the most delicious jams and jellies in an incredibly short time before their eyes.

Women with memories of long, tiresome, laborious hours spent over a hot stove; of difficulties constantly being met and of vexatious disappointment when their jams proved a failure could scarcely believe that these happy youngsters were turning out perfect jams and jellies of the highest order as if the task were a thoroughly enjoyable pastime.

Such a feat would, of course, be impossible were it not for Certo, the culinary triumph of the century, which has revolutionized the art of jam and jelly making.

Certo is a pure fruit product entirely free from gelatin and preservatives and it has been aptly called "Mother Nature's Jell Maker." With Certo it is possible to make jams and jellies from all kinds of fruit whether fresh, dried or canned. Some of these, which were formerly most difficult or impossible, can now be made with the greatest of ease. Certo, moreover, saves the housewife's time as only one minute's boiling is required against the long, tiresome hours formerly necessary and since perfect jam is certain the first time and every time she is further relieved from much worry and anxiety. Since, too, 50% more jam is obtained from the same amount of fruit, money is saved. Then, too, the color, flavor and aroma are not boiled away, but are preserved in their full naturalness in the jam—a fact which makes Certo-made jam so vastly superior in appearance and taste to that made by old-fashioned methods.

Get a bottle of Certo and book of recipes today from your Druggist or Grocer. You can then make jams and jellies just as easily as the children made it at Springfield Exposition and you will never again go back to the lengthy, laborious and wasteful methods of old. Try making some delicious jelly with bottled grape juice or bottled loganberry juice. Takes only 10 minutes and it's perfect. Then make some of that wonderful pineapple jam from canned pineapples or some delightful raisin jam from Sunmaid seeded raisins. All of these remarkable recipes and many others are found in the Certo Book of Recipes. Just try Certo once and you and your friends will always use it.

If you grocer or druggist does not have Certo, please call Miss Dwyer, Fort Hill 1014, to learn where to obtain it.

CALL MEETING TO GET WORK FOR IDLE

Committees to Be Named to Plan Permanent Measures to Keep Men Busy

By Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 2.—Call for the first meeting of the standing committee of the national conference on unemployment in New York on Friday has been sent out by Secretary Hoover, it was announced today by Edward Lyre Hunt, secretary of the conference.

The status of unemployment and the progress of emergency measures in cities, Mr. Hunt said, would be placed before the committee, and special committees would be selected to begin the study of seasonal and cyclical phases of the unemployment problem, in order to establish permanent measures of providing steady work for wage-earners.

The standing committee which was formed by the conference to carry on its work has the power to convene the full conference at any time. Its members are Julius H. Barnes, Miss Ida M. Tarbell, Miss Mary Van Kleeck, Clarence Mott Woolley and Arthur Woods, New York; Mayor Andrew P. Peters and William M. Butler, Boston; C. H. Markham, Chicago; E. M. Poston, Columbus, O.; Ernest T. Trigg, Philadelphia; Edgar R. Clark, Joseph H. Lefrere and Matthew Woll, Washington, D. C.; Mortimer Fleischbacker, San Francisco.

Fresh From Paris

Latest Word From Marie Suzanne

Paris, France.

FOR extreme weather Paris advocates a long cape-wrap of sumptuous mink built on straight lines in spite of its width. The turnover collar is of the same fur, and the sleeves are scarcely more than rounded openings for the arms to slip through; the wrap is lined with brown and gold brocaded satin. The slender chemise frock worn beneath it is of gray duvetyn banded with blue duvetyn and having an embroidered design of blue and silver and a silver cord girdle. The bodice is sleeveless, having the demure "bateau" neckline.

Exquisitely delicate is an informal evening gown of cream lace heavily embroidered in gold and having bright gold lace panels at each side of the skirt which fall below the skirt edge. The "bateau" neckline, the slender silhouette and the irregular hemline are all favorites of the mode, but its crowning glory lies in the lace mitts. The girdle is of gold metal.

DIVORCED PAIR REUNITED BY COURT ORDER

Providence Couple, Desiring to Rewed, Find Final Decree Not Entered on Records

Providence, Nov. 2.—When is a divorce not a divorce?

Joseph and Gertrude Jackson of No. 132 Prospect Avenue were confronted with this question when they went to City Hall to make a new start in their ventura in matrimony.

A year ago last July, unable to that no decree had ever been finally issued. The final court order had not, through some error, been entered at the end of the six-months period after the hearing. Hence all that was necessary was for their lawyers to file a petition asking that the old order be vacated. This was done, and the young couple left for their new home in Harrisville.

Heritage of Health

At ready command of every one of us since Childhood has been a food incomparable in life sustaining, vigor giving properties;—the food richest in essential VITAMINES;—one of the most delicious of foods both as a beverage and when combined with other foods.

Yet, strangely, we neglect this wonderful natural heritage of health, and complain of the high cost of living!

We none of us use enough Fresh Fluid MILK!

Give them more fresh milk "A quart a day" the Doctors say.

Pimples and boils are signs of lowered vitality

A familiar food now used to correct them

PIMPLES and blackheads (acne) and boils are often the signals of a falling off in health. "A bad acne may indicate profound debility," writes a physician connected with a number of leading New York hospitals, and "the repeated occurrence of boils should always be looked upon as an indication of lowered vitality."

It has been found from actual clinical tests that remarkable results are obtained in treating these complaints with Fleischmann's Yeast.

Today Fleischmann's Yeast is everywhere recognized as a valuable "conditioner." It is a fresh food which supplies in rich quantities the newly discovered vitamine known to be lacking from many of our foods. It thus corrects lowered vitality which is so often the underlying cause of these minor ailments.

To protect themselves against these complaints many are making Fleischmann's Yeast a part of their regular diet. It is a highly digestible food assimilated like any other fresh food. You will like its fresh, distinctive flavor and the clean, wholesome taste it leaves in your mouth.

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast before or between meals—from two to three cakes a day. Only one precaution: if troubled with gas dissolve yeast first in very hot water. This does not affect the efficacy of the yeast. You will like Fleischmann's Yeast spread on toast or crackers, dissolved in milk or fruit-juices, or just plain. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast and get it fresh daily.

Send 4 cents in stamps for the interesting booklet, "The New Importance of Yeast in Diet." So many inquiries are coming in daily for this booklet that it is necessary to make this nominal charge to cover cost of handling and mailing. Address THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY, 701 Washington Street, New York, N. Y.

The need for scientifically tested yeast

Fresh yeast has been proved by recent scientific tests to be a valuable food for correcting run-down condition, constipation, indigestion and certain skin disorders. These original tests were all made with Fleischmann's Yeast. Beware of untested yeast-wrapping preparations that contain drugs or other mixtures. Fleischmann's Yeast (fresh) is a pure food, rich in vitamine, in which it measures up to the high standards set by laboratories and hospitals. The familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label is the only form in which Fleischmann's Yeast for Health is sold.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Advertisement.

FIRST PICTURE IN BOOK TEST ON MONDAY

The most enjoyable test in the Boston American's long list of similar entertainments will be the $5,000 Book Title Test, which begins in these pages on Monday of next week.

If you would be certain of making a good start in this new test it is advisable that you say a word to your regular newsdealer without delay. There will be a big demand for Monday's Boston American, containing Book Test Picture No. 1. If you "trust to luck," you may be too late. Back numbers of the paper will NOT be available through this office. Speak today to the newsdealer!

The new test will be a simple affair consisting only of sixty pictures. A title has been selected for each of these pictures. The picture will be drawn to illustrate these specified titles.

TITLES FIT PICTURES.

What titles? Which books? What book titles does this picture represent?

That will be the question, each and every day throughout the test. Not a guessing match. Every day a List of Titles will be printed with the Test Picture. In this List will be THE Correct Title. This will be your guarantee that "one title in this List fits today's picture better than any other title in the List."

At the end of the sixty-day Test you will send in the sixty pictures, first writing below each picture the title you think fits it best. These selections will be examined carefully, compared with the Correct List and the Boston American then will distribute the following awards:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500
Fourth Award	400
Fifth Award	300
Sixth Award	200
Seventh Award	150
Eighth Award	100
9th Award	75
10 Awards of $10 Each	1,000
170 Awards of $5 Each	1,000
Total	$5,000

SOME PROBLEMS EASY.

The first picture, printed next Monday, will be a good example of the problem to be placed before participants in the new test. Some problems will be easy. Some will be more difficult. The best advice to give every person who enters the Test is that it will mainly be a test for those with a "knowledge of words and their meaning." Exactly what is meant by this will be explained in detail as we go along.

Picture No. 1, then, in the Boston American's $5,000 Book Title Test, in next Monday's paper.

DO say that word in advance to Mr. Newsdealer!

History of Cotton

—a very interesting exhibit

There are cottons from pre-historic Peru; from the far East, where cotton was the costume of nobility, woven so finely as to be almost invisible (see the wedding veil of an Indian princess); from Roumania, where peasants adapted Oriental designs in hand embroideries. And even our own Hopi Indians of the Southwest contributed something to the artistic weaving of cotton.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Noted Dancer to Appear at Cambridge Bazar

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE fact that Mary Sigourney, Elizabeth Caswell, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Sartwell (Elias Pollard) are due to dance next Tuesday evening in Brattle Hall at the annual bazar of the Cambridge Hospital League is bound to attract a large crowd.

Both Miss Sigourney and Miss Caswell have helped to make the Vincent Club shows such entertaining affairs. I recall the former's charming dance, "When North Meets South," in which Louisa Hoar was her partner. Louisa, by the way, has been in Paris the last few months, busily perfecting herself in the intricacies of terpsichore. The daughter of the late Representative Rockwood Hoar sailed for abroad shortly after serving as maid of honor at the decidedly elite wedding of her sister, Frances Hoar, and Reginald Foster of Charles River Village. The ceremony, which took place last June at the capital, drew practically the entire "who's who" of Washington within the doors of the house of worship known as the Church of Presidents, where the ceremony was solemnized. I remember that at that time, society was fairly agog over the rather striking innovation of the bride for she had a tall negress carry her train for her at the wedding. Miss Hoar, I believe, is to be for the Winter months with her mother, Mrs. Frederick Gillett, wife of the Speaker, at the Gillett residence in Washington.

Elizabeth Caswell, with her delicate beauty—she has deep brown eyes and soft, light hair—and her artistry as a dancer, receives the heartiest of applause wherever she goes. Thus, with these two able entertainers, together with the clever Mr. and Mrs. Sartwell, the committee in charge of the affair has procured some valuable "drawing cards." Important as it is, however, this forms but one part of the interesting program planned for the day.

The fair starts at 11 o'clock in the morning, and in addition to the usual tables there is to be a special entertainment for children beginning at 2 o'clock; the evening entertainment will consist of a cabaret, starting at 8:30, to be followed by general dancing, which will last until midnight. Among the other entertainers are Mrs. William Stanley Parker (Betty Porter), who will give her famous monologues; William Chamberlain, the magician and Messrs. Joseph Larocque and Howard Elliot, who will give pianologues.

The various tables will be in charge of the following women: Fancy, Mrs. James W. Seven; household, Mrs. Arthur L. Jackson; baby, Mrs. Robert Walcott; second-hand book table, Mrs. Henry C. Sletson; knitted articles, Mrs. P. T. Jackson; cooked food, Mrs. William M. Richardson; buffet, Mrs. Charles W. Gilbert; flower, fruit and vegetable market, Mrs. Robert Weston; candy, Mrs. Rodiorti Marean, and afternoon tea table, Mrs. Kenneth S. Usher.

Tickets for dancing may be obtained at Ames's book store, Brattle square, Cambridge.

Society and the movies again!

Interesting to the socially-elect, especially of Dedham comes the announcement that Mrs. Lydig Hoyt will make her appearance as a screen actress in "The Wonderful Thing," which will be shown at the Strand Theatre, in New York, beginning next Sunday. Under the screen name of Julia Hoyt, she will be seen in support of Norma Talmadge. The society-actress, who, in this picture plays the second feminine part, is said to have ambitions of heading a company of her own, as soon as she feels that she has absorbed the necessary screen technique.

Now that members of first families here and there have taken up the movies, and have opened smart little shops, even the most artocratic of the bluebloods may hesitate before they condemn those who have taken up the "business of life" in a serious way.

CORCORAN PETITIONS SHIFT FOR PAUL SUIT

William J. Corcoran, attorney whose disbarment is being sought, by the Boston Bar Association, has filed a petition in Supreme Court asking that the suit brought against him by his former client, Scott W. Paul of Methuen, be transferred for hearing to the United States District Court, alleging that he is now a resident of New York State rather than of Massachusetts.

Paul's suit grows out of the "shakedown" of Victor E. Searles, nephew of the late Edward F. Searles, Methuen millionaire. Paul sued Searles for damages for alleged alienation of affections, and when this case was settled out of court was given, he said, $5,000 by Corcoran, his attorney. Later, he said, he learned that Searles had given Corcoran $50,000, and he now seeks to compel Corcoran to pay him a larger share.

HEALTHFUL VIGOR IN STRONG BLOOD

Rich, Red Blood Built Up by Pepto-Mangan—Liquid or Tablet

Blood is strong and full of life-giving vigor when there are plenty of red cells in it. Anaemic people have little strength because there are not enough red cells in the blood. It is thin and watery. Weak blood makes faces pale, pulls down the strength and leaves the body tired, weak, and sickly.

A course in Gude's Pepto-Mangan restores weak blood to its normal strength. Taken regularly for a while it adds red cells to the blood. Then with good blood, the strength and vigor of health return. There is pleasure in living, with good blood running through the veins. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is put up in liquid and in tablet form. They are the same medicinally. Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for years. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package.—Advertisement.

COX ENDORSES THE CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND

Governor Expresses Hope of Generous Response to Aid the Needy

Governor Channing H. Cox has followed the lead of Vice-President Calvin Coolidge by indorsing the American Christmas Basket Fund, now open for contributions from the public. The Fund has been started by a personal contribution of $1,000 from the Boston American.

In his letter of indorsement the Governor of Massachusetts says he has for several years known of the excellent work done by the American's Christmas Fund in providing wholesome dinners for thousands of impoverished persons at Tuleties.

He expressed the hope that the fund will have larger support from the public this year than at any time since its inauguration eight years ago, as he fully realizes the great need for assistance this year. The letter from Governor Cox appears elsewhere on this page.

ROXBURY MAN FIRST.

Contributions have begun to reach the Boston American office from the public. The first donation, a crisp $5 bill, came from George H. Curry of Roxbury, a widely known railroad man, who repeated his gift of last year. In addition to a financial contribution to the fund, Mr. Curry expects to aid in many other ways. He is planning a big entertainment and motion picture show in Roxbury for the benefit of the fund.

Many dancing academies, social and fraternal organizations and individuals are making plans for parties in aid of the fund. These include whist and dancing assemblies, and even a dog show is being arranged to obtain funds, so that impoverished men, women and children of Metropolitan Boston, who otherwise would have but little happiness on Christmas, may obtain good dinners in their homes. Several associations are discussing plans for athletic events, the net proceeds of which will be turned over to the Christmas Fund.

CHILDREN TO AID.

These numerous events constitute an ideal method of raising money, as they give pleasure to participants in addition to materially aiding the fund. Not only are adults arranging such parties. Many little children, with the assistance of their parents and older brothers and sisters, are planning various kinds of juvenile entertainments, to host the fund, in order that no little boy or girl in this section of the country shall go hungry on Christmas Day.

Some of the organizations have already selected their dates and committees are at work arranging the details. It is an easy matter for a small group of persons to conduct a party, that, with little effort, will net many dollars for the fund. The Christmas Fund Editor will be glad to assist any persons or organizations that desire to conduct entertainments which will result in many Christmas dinners for weary, overworked mothers and hungry children.

Alive to the fact that conditions in Greater Boston this Christmas will be far worse than any year within a decade, the Boston American is ready to do the biggest job since the Basket Fund was founded. Everybody connected with the Christmas Fund, from the office boy up, is filled with enthusiasm and ready to do his or her best to make it the greatest success in its history.

EVERY CENT SPENT ON FOOD.

We desire to reiterate that we spend one hundred cents on the dollar. Every cent contributed is spent solely for the purchase of food, namely, purchasing food for families that would otherwise be without good dinners on Christmas.

The Boston American from its own treasury pays every expense connected with the work of the Christmas fund. There are no charges of any kind made against the fund, such as: Office rent, postage, clerical work, etc.

Another point that the Christmas Fund Editor desires to impress upon all prospective contributors is that extreme care is taken to place food in the homes of really needy people.

If you wish to feed a hungry child on Christmas, obey that impulse now, and send your check or money order to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, No. 10 Summer street.

John W. English, Esq., Director Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, Boston, Mass.

My Dear Mr. English:

For several years I have known of the work of the Boston American in distributing Christmas baskets and I am convinced that its efforts have brought cheer to thousands of families which otherwise might have had little or no occasion for happiness on that great holiday.

May I therefore express the hope this year you may have larger public support than ever and widen the scope of your usefulness.

Very truly yours,

Channing H Cox

'UNKNOWN HERO' IS HONORED BY ALL ITALY

Symbol of 500,000 Dead Lies in Church At Rome Until Friday

By Associated Press.

Rome, Nov. 2.—Reverence by King and peasant was paid to Italy's unknown soldier, symbol of her 500,000 dead, when the body arrived in Rome this morning and was transported on a gun carriage to the Church of Santa Maria Degli Angeli. It will there lie in state until its final interment on Friday in the "Altar of the Country," under the Victor Emmanuel Monument.

The train bearing the body arrived in a suburb of Rome last night, being met by the mayor and members of the municipal council.

The cars of the train were virtually filled with floral tributes to the unknown soldier, more than 2,000 wreaths having been placed aboard by the authorities of nearly 100 towns through which the train had passed on its trip from Aquileia, northeast of Venice, to Rome.

This morning the car carrying the body was brought to the Central Station in this city, and royal and official Italy came to pay homage to the casket in which reposed the body that will on Friday be enshrined here.

The King and Queen, as the chief mourners, stood with bowed heads as the coffin, draped in the tri-color, was carried from the train on the shoulders of eight valorous non-commissioned officers to the waiting gun carriage. Members of the royal household, princes and princesses, ministers of state, senators and deputies, the general staff of the army and navy, crippled veterans, widows and mothers all united in silent honor for the dead.

BOSTON CITY CLUB TO HAVE ITS OWN MUSIC

SHIP BOARD GOING INTO "JUNK BUSINESS"

Washington, Nov. 2.—The United States Shipping Board has gone into the junk business on a tremendous scale in an effort to dispose of $252,000,000 worth of surplus materials and supplies on hand after building and fitting out the emergency fleet. Within a few days, it was said today, advertisements will appear offering everything for sale, from "slightly used" steam locomotives to drugs and tobacco.

TOWNLEY, NON-PARTISAN CHIEF, GOING TO JAIL

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 2.—A. C. Townley, president of the Non-Partisan league, was enroute today for Jackson, Minn., to serve a ninety day sentence in the county jail there. The Supreme Court of the United States recently refused to hear re-argument of the case, tried in Jackson during 1918, when Mr. Townley was convicted of violating the state sedition act.

FOR A CONSTIPATED CHILD

A small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will bring quick relief.

MOTHER, when one of the children is constipated are you going to give the first laxative within reach? It is dangerous to do so. Some have been known to rupture the intestines of little children. Don't be beguiled by the outside sugary appearance. Look into the formula. Calomel is seldom necessary; salts, minerals, coal tar, never!

Unlike these, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is admirable for children, as it is for grown people, too. Mothers have been giving it to children for 30 years. They know it does not gripe, and is free from narcotics. The formula is on every package, and you can see it is vegetable, just a combination of Egyptian Senna and other laxative herbs with pepsin. Use it yourself and you will find it is not necessary to take it every day, nor to increase the dose, and that it is pleasant to the taste. Bottles can be had at all drug stores, and the cost is only about a cent a dose. Have no hesitancy giving it to a baby in arms. It is absolutely safe.

Half-Ounce Bottle Free

For instant constipation, or even if you do not require a laxative at this moment let me send you a Half-ounce Trial Bottle of my Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE so that you will have it handy when needed. Simply send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Write me today.

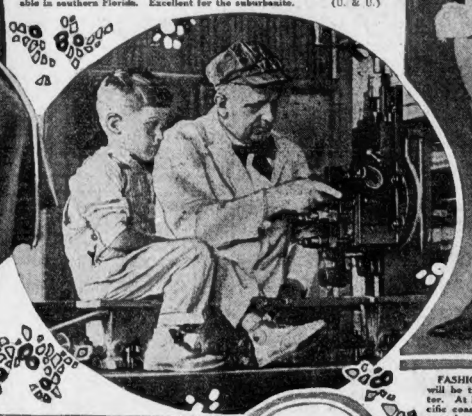
FUR IS GOING TO BE HIGH ON THE BATHING SUITS THIS WINTER

OH, SHOOT! Mrs. "Gus" Kirwan and Mrs. "Ben" King, Dixon of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., bagged 25 ducks in one day. Two of the best known shots in the West. (U. & U.)

KISSES AND TEARS! Sweethearts are the same the world over, and here we have limpid-eyed Spanish senoritas accompanying their loved ones, bound for Morocco battlefields.

MISS ELIZABETH C. CONLEY, who has instructed many foreign celebrities visiting U. S. in manners and procedure here, is back for more tips. (Int.)

THREE POUNDS OF LIMBURGER, PLEASE! Here's an idea for live-wire New Englanders. This auto grocery store is proving popular and profitable in southern Florida. Excellent for the suburbanite. (U. & U.)



FASHION NOTE! Bathing suits will be trimmed with fur this Winter. At least the latest suits on Pacific coast beaches are. "Us girls" must keep in style. (U. & U.)

LET'S GO SKATING! And what would be more beautiful to skate in than this copper-red skating costume of duvetyne, trimmed with platinum gray squirrel? Hat is of duvetyne with cockade of velvet ribbon.

WATCH ME, SON! Secretary of Labor Davis is teaching little Jimmie, Jr., all about the mechanist's trade. Picture taken at Moose's Orphan School. (W. W.)

REGISTERING THEIR KICK! Anita Wright (N. Y.) dancers caught in a festive mood atop a 15-story house. (K.)

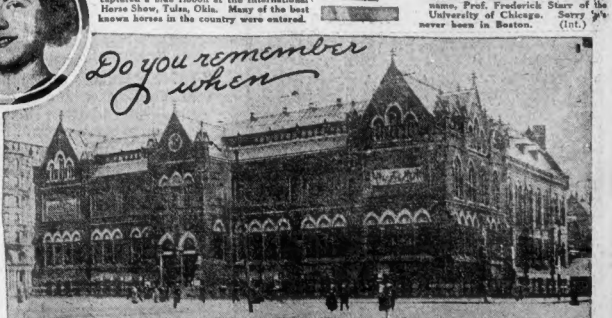
MRS. TOM WINTERINGHAM of Louth, second Englishwoman to be elected to Parliament. Joins Lady Astor. (Int.)

"MIDNIGHT" SHINES IN MIDDAY! This sterling animal, many times pictured on this page, has won more honors. Ridden by Miss Marion Jones of Warrensburg, Mo., he captured a blue ribbon at the International Horse Show, Tulsa, Okla. Many of the best known horses in the country were entered.

UP AND AT HIM, GIRLS! Here's the chap who said there were no beautiful women in the U. S. anywhere. Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago. Sorry you've never been in Boston. (Int.)

BREAK-NECK STUFF! This stunt was listed at a recent motorcycle meet at Copenhagen, Denmark, as a novelty race. It's novel if you keep your neck intact. Both are speeding. (K.)

MISS DOROTHY TROY came 10,000 miles from Alaska to learn kindergarten teaching in N. Y. (Int.)



ONE OF THE ELECT! Maybe. Although Georgia Tech was badly trounced last Saturday by the Penn State pigskin chasers, "Red" Barron, Tech quarterback, played a good game. He is mentioned as an "All American" quarterback. Pictures of possible "All America" winners will be published on this page from day to day.

MY POOR HEART! Miss Gladys Reed, film beauty, says it was so badly wounded by Roberto Hovtematte, millionaire South American, that she wants $100,000 heart balm.

ALL UPSET over her plumpness! Miss Lily Frenkel is the star member of Dr. Copeland's "fat cheer's" squad of women in N. Y. In 10 days she has thrown off so much fat that she can stand on her head. (U. & U.)

WHEN THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS STOOD IN COPLEY SQUARE! Gosh, you don't have to be over the "chicken age" to remember that! The Copley-Plaza Hotel, of course, stands on this site now. Remember, 'way back at school, when you were good for a whole week, teacher took the whole class to the museum? You had a great time looking at all the funny things there. And don't you remember how you blushed when teacher accidentally took you into the rooms where the statuary was? (United Photos.)

GLOUCESTER HIGH HOPES TO DEFEAT CHELSEA ELEVEN TODAY

By FRED C. LANE

Gloucester High, termed the heaviest jinxed team in the State, will today try, at the expense of Chelsea High, to chase the hoodoo that has so closely followed Coach Jack Burke and his handfull of football players in today's contest.

The Gloucester High School build-up has been and still is in a period of reconstruction. The student body is divided into morning and afternoon classes. This is the reason for the failures of Gloucester High to shine on the gridiron.

When the call for practice is given, after each session, only six or eight players don the moleskins for practice. Bystanders must be called upon to give the team opportunity to scrimmage.

* * *

The squad, which totals fifteen, was handicapped by the non-return from school of its three best players. Yet with all these hard breaks, the team held Lynn Classical, cream of the North Shore League, to a 7 to 7 score for three periods. Not until the injured list had grown so large that Coach Burke was necessitated to send injured players into the fray was the Lynn team able to emerge a 21 to 7 winner.

* * *

Chelsea High is on an equal footing with the Fishermen's Juniors from the performance of the Gloucester aggregation last Saturday it should come out a winner.

* * *

It is plain that faculty managers of some of our Mid-West high schools are unaware of the fact that Haverhill High is one of the best teams in Massachusetts. The Haverhill faculty manager is in receipt of four requests from out of state teams desirous of playing Haverhill early.

* * *

Massachusetts was never so well humbled with formidable schoolboy football teams at this year. Nine teams, and possibly four are on even terms with Haverhill, if the issue is given careful consideration.

For instance, Malden High has met and defeated in addition to Head of Haverhill to a 7 to 7 score; the formidable five from New Haven. Newton High is equally as strong this year as it were a year ago when the brunt of the game went in favor of Haverhill resulting in the Shoe City team winning. Cambridge Rindge and Latin High has met defeat.

In addition to these two teams, Waltham High likewise held Haverhill scoreless and has defeated a number of high class football machines, including Fitchburg High, a victory which is considered some feat.

A number of our teams leading their various New England leagues are equal to the task of defending the honor of Massachusetts.

There is a possibility that the Worcester aces may be at the situation from a financial standpoint, gaining with favorable eyes on the fine Haverhill Stadium that is capable of holding 12,000 spectators. Perhaps they are not aware that in Boston we have Braves Field and Fenway Park, two good spots for football clashes.

* * *

It might be well for the faculty managers of some of our leading high schools to take a little information of the managers of the Western teams who seem to be capable of scheduling Massachusetts and New England in a postponement.

* * *

A meeting of the headmasters of Greater Boston schools will take place on Thursday at which time the possibility of John Nordberg, star halfback of Latin School will be discussed. Headmaster Downey of Latin, a fine man, who has brought the matter to light, will furnish the means with information and data that will no doubt cause the retirement of Nordberg as a schoolboy performer.

* * *

Cambridge Latin has the chance of a lifetime next Saturday to redeem itself and make up its place with the leaders of the Suburban League when it meets Arlington Catholic. A win by the Latinish lads would cause a general upheaval in the league which is now being led by Malden and Newton. Latinish Zarnkow will be on hand for the battle and help materially in making the chances of a Latinish win look hopeful.

* * *

Malden engages Somerville High which is winning City Series honors in life, and some fireworks are on tap for the followers who take in this contest.

DRURY BACK IN HOCKEY WITH PITTSBURGH

Famous Forward and Storm Centre Eligible for the Smoky City Team

Herb Drury, famous forward and storm centre of Pittsburgh hockey will rejoin the Pittsburgh Hockey Club this Winter. An extended controversy over him was waged a year ago. It had its inception in Pittsburgh where the officials there wrangled to such an extent that it broke up the Smoky City team of a year ago.

Drury went to Canada to follow up his favorite pastime but there was a hockey nemesis on his trail and between them, the other being the Ontario Hockey Association, he was deprived of a chance to show his sensational wares on the ice.

Herb was notified that his presence in Canada was not desired in hockey league circles and a good many moons that he was considered a tourist hockey player.

While he did play in exhibition games in Canada he had an eye to the future and did not inject his whole presence into championship competition. Therefore he is eligible to the United States Association he is eligible to play with Pittsburgh this season.

Drury is really a great hockey player, one of the few who ranks with Hobey Baker and Patsey Begun in practice on the ice are of the dashing, all-out-for-me — I'm-a-herder-of-the-sod-eg type, but he is a remarkable attraction. He was the star of the American team in the Olympic championship series with the Falcons of Winnipeg.

Pittsburgh becomes a contender for the national championship with this rare bird in its lineup.

SHAMROCKS WANT GAMES WITH BASKETBALL TEAMS

The Shamrock basket-ball team of the Bunker Hill Boys' Club have organized for the season and would like to arrange games with the fastest teams in the vicinity. A win by the Captain Icthe would cause a general upheaval in the league which is now being led by Malden and Newton. Captain Zarnkow will be on hand for the battle and help materially in making the chances of a Captain win look hopeful.

GAME WITH GEORGETOWN REA LTEST FOR FORDHAM

New York, Nov. 2.—The Fordham Georgetown football game Saturday at the American League ball park in Washington will go a long way toward determining the status of the local eleven. A study of the results of the six games Fordham has played this year lends no hope here.

The locals started off in great style by turning in their conservative victories over Maine Washington College and Catholic University. They followed a fair game with Villanova, in which the Ironsides made a poor showing. Next came the Lafayette game at the Polo Grounds. The Easterners beat Fordham by a score of 28 to 7, but it must be said that the Maroon lads gave a fine account of themselves.

This is what Jess Willard would like to get out of pugilism before he hangs up his gloves for all time, and this despite the fact that he has just made a rich all strike out West.

Will Willard really fight Dempsey again? Will he actually accept a ring and train for it? Oil or no oil, he will

In a message received today from the big fellow who is "wollowing" in a golden pool of oil, declares that he is "safe working any time empsey says.

Pretty busy here in Kansas right now," oil, his message read. "But will start working in California during the Winter if Dempsey wants and give assurance that he will be there this time. Family is Wintering in California and I expected to go there before long."

Tex Rickard, who brought Willard and Dempsey together at Toledo, Willard lined up for a return bout, but the promoter recently pitched a wild one over the fence when he was advised that Willard was in the market for a bout. He returned East pretty well satisfied with prospects of putting the match through, however, and he expects to stage the return bout by next July.

He has no idea of giving up the match, for he is confident that it would be a drawing card.

Rickard is confident also that Willard will be in fine trojan to get into prime physical condition if any match is made. Recent visitors to New York, who have seen Willard out West, report that he appears to be in great physical condition and several have expressed the opinion that he would be able to condition himself for a championship battle within three months.

HARVARD FRESHMAN MEETING TOMORROW

Harvard freshmen will [illegible] meeting tomorrow at 7.30 p. m. While the varsity is battling at Princeton the freshmen will have the first real work in the Stadium. New York, Nov. 2—Balm for wounded personal pride swelled with a mental "it."

MORLEY PUTS IN CLAIM AS THE CHAMPION OF WELTERWEIGHTS

By JACK CONWAY.

Mike Morley, Bridgeport welterweight, doesn't intend to permit Paul Doyle, Eddie Shevlin, Nate Siegal or anybody else to interfere with his title claims. Morley writes that he is the noble boss of our New England welterweights and that he doesn't care a hurrah who knows it.

The Bridgeport warrior avers he earned that championship when he was awarded the decision over Nate Siegal at Mechanics Building. Mike claims that Siegal was then the logical one for the honor.

Morley added that [illegible] a resident of New York State and as a result could not win the New England title.

'Tis a merry world mates, when a fighter has a title.

Matchmaker Roy Green of the Fenway A. A. looks for a big turnout of fans for his show at the Boston Arena Friday night. So that the boys who really keep the boxing game alive will have plenty of elbow room, there will be 1,500 ringside seats. This is as it should be. High prices have done a great deal to injure the boxing game.

The feature bout of ten rounds, will [illegible] Terry Martin of Dorchester and Danny Kramer of Boston. Martin is one of the [illegible] boys in the game and [illegible] he has developed into a husky [illegible] sure to make things interesting for the Providence entry.

There is also considerable interest in the ten-round bouts between Frankie Conway and Freddy Madden. These boys are bitter rivals and have already engaged in a couple of stiff mixups.

The opening ten-round bout at the Fenway A. A. show, which was to have been between Frankie Ryan and Jimmie Conard has been separated. Matchmaker Roy Green has substituted Paddy Flynn and Jimmy White. This greatly strengthens the card as White recently defeated Flynn at Lynn in a fourteen round battle. Naturally Paddy does not like the change.

Reservations may be secured at No 19 Washington st.

That a determined effort is being made to eliminate Henry Ford of the North End from consideration in forthcoming amateur championships is evidenced through the fact Joe McAuliffe and Henry Probett of Lynn have been covered up for a pound class bouts at Friday night's show at the Lynnerie. Ford, who won last week in the five and one won at St. Mary's gymnasium in Cambridge this week, has a busy time of it.

The Lynn fair are hot on Ford's trail and in the pink of well quilt for a bout with the boy they rend as the main [illegible] of boxing [illegible] Ford has been a very consistent winner [illegible] and in the 115 [illegible] recent theatre. He hopes to [illegible] the winning column [illegible] down to the New England and national title events.

In addition to the 115-pound class [illegible] classes of the St. Johnsbury [illegible] will be [illegible] in the 108, 125 and 135 pound [illegible] Interest are that close to fifty [illegible] will be on hand for this show. Last week there were 28 bouts on the card, and according to President Cuddy the indications are that there will be fully as many, if not more, this week.

Tickets can be procured at the offices of the club, Room 13, No. 38 School street.

Tickets for the Jack Malone-Lou Bogaus boxing bout to be held on Armistice Night at the New Boston Arena, went on sale today at the offices of the Commercial Club. Already Robert K. Medway, president of the organization, has received a sufficient number of reservations to indicate a capacity house.

The Commercial Club directors have decided that the loyal patrons of boxing be rewarded by seeing a really high class show at popular prices. In addition to the ten-round bout began Bogaus and Malone there will be three eight rounders carded for the night. As yet the club is not prepared to announce the balance of its card.

Malone is in fine shape and working each day for the bout at Harry Kelley's gymnasium in Bowdoin Square. The former St. Paul resident is so enthusiastic about Boston that he has practically decided to make his home here. He plans a strenuous campaign during the Winter months and his bout with Bogash is to be the first step toward its consummation.

Abe Friedman, New England bantam weight champion, who has two reasons decision, over Young Montreal, is ready to do battle with any bantamweight in the country. Alex McLean, matchmaker for the Armory A. A., tried to get Midgie Smith, Jack Sharkey, Pete Herman, Joe Lynch, Jabas White and Johnny Huff to battle Friedman on November 15, but all declined. Smith was offered a guarantee of $2,500 with the privilege of 30 per cent., but he wired McLean a telegram saying "don't make me laugh."

* * *

Johnny Clinton, lightweight contender, started light training today for several matches his manager, Eddie Mack, has in view for him. Clinton is a classy lightweight and is always glad would like nothing better than to meet Johnny Shugrue. If Shugrue will not agree to meet the ex-champion, Clinton will meet any other lightweight in the country.

* * *

Willie Harmon, a new 118-pounder from New York City, has placed his business under the direction of Eddie Mack, who will try and pilot him to the top. Harmon has had about thirty-eight fights, and won thirty-five of them by the K. O. route. He is a hard hitter and should go big around New England.

* * *

Young Bova, West End bantamweight, would like nothing better than to go over the jumps with Johnny Sheppard of Woburn. Both boys are of the slugging type and a horrid mill that would please the crowd would be the result if these two boys are ever matched.

GRIDIRON UPSETS MAY FIGURE AGAIN IN SATURDAY'S PLAY

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Old Man Upset has a few opportunities to operate this week, but whether he will be as successful as on last Saturday is a matter he is not apt to reveal until late in the afternoon of November 8.

The Harvard-Princeton battle at Old Nassau finds no firmly established favor to [illegible] greater potential strength leads many to expect a Tiger victory.

But take the Cornell-Columbia pastime in New York.

Cornell, probably will [illegible] on team by a margin of [illegible] nell's 59 to 7 trouncing of Dartmouth, and its record as the highest-scoring eleven in the country can not help but swing the favor pronouncedly in Carmelli's way, and when the impressive Ithacan record is compared with Columbia's badly battered history, studded with defeats by Amherst, Williams and Dartmouth, there would seem to be "nothing to it."

* * *

And yet—and yet.

Columbia will have a weight advantage over Cornell; Columbia will have two heartfield men whose individual ability exceeds that of any Cornell may place upon the field; and Columbia, for the first time in its 1121 football history may gain the "breaks." And when a team gains the "breaks" in the modern game of football, is no telling what may happen.

* * *

Harvard, largely on the "breaks," was able to defeat Holy Cross, in Ithaca and Georgia, and the Penn State, but when the "breaks" went against the Crimson, as was the case last week, Centre College gained its unexpected victory.

* * *

Dartmouth, largely on the "breaks" defeated Tennessee and Columbia; when the "breaks" deserted Dartmouth for Cornell, Coach Cutts' team was made to appear hopeless and helpless

Pittsburgh deserted by the "breaks" in its first [illegible] with Nebraska, [illegible] but when [illegible] of football coaches came in [illegible] stated to Pitt and its [illegible] ments, the real quality of Glen Warner's team was revealed as high class

* * *

They tell you or at least [illegible] that the "breaks" [illegible] ball by the team that [illegible] But how could Harvard [illegible] with the [illegible] generally shown by [illegible] down second [illegible] to Purple?

* * *

How could centre be credited with Buell's miscuing of [illegible] easy field goal [illegible] off-side penalty inflicted upon the Crimson on the play that [illegible] the ball to centre's four-yard line?

* * *

How could Cornell be credited with the off-side ruling that prevented Carlmichel from [illegible] another well-conceived and well-executed surprise kick, which in a twinkling of the very start of the game transferred the ball from [illegible] Dartmouth's goal line [illegible] equally near Cornell's last stride over the off-side penalties that came on Dartmouth's neatly-executed 25-yard and 15-yard forward passes, or the woeful passing of the Dartmouth centre?

* * *

And how could Lafayette be credited with Pittsburgh's fumble on Lafayette's six-yard mark

Yes, with the [illegible] "breaks" clustering around Columbia's standard, Old Man Upset [illegible] an excellent chance to [illegible] to Ol' Doc Dope at the Pool [illegible] Saturday.

And another such opportunity must be conceded the former in the Lafayette-Pennsylvania game, in which Lafayette is the odds-on favorite, still another in the Navy-Bucknell contest, [illegible] another in the Harvard-Wesleyan affray, while [illegible] Penn [illegible] Penn State [illegible] Springfield home the winner over Detroit.

* * *

The Army-Notre Dame game probably will find the Cadets ruling a slight favorite, but so often have the [illegible] of the Mid-Westerners' aerial attack that here again the outcome offers most interesting

* * *

The East is not the only section to draw contests of rare possibilities this week for at Chicago Jack Wilce's Ohio State eleven, which has played [illegible] football since failing [illegible] Illinois [illegible] Purdue [illegible] tion and Colorado.

* * *

On the Pacific coast, California, whose eleven was underrated last year and then far the season, encounters Southern California, whose record also showed no defeats last season and has continued equally pleasing to its supporters this year. On the result of the latter game undoubtedly will be determined the team that will meet an Eastern or Middle West eleven in the annual New Year's Day contest at Pasadena.

* * *

Some authors are extremely fortunate.

Take for instance Bill Roper. He cracked his book on "Winning Football" [illegible] football was winning [illegible] long before the Navy and Chicago introduced an entirely different brand of winning football than that touched upon by the Princeton coach

[illegible] Yost [illegible] Michigan Mentor [illegible] the Harvard [illegible] to the play, and very direct the founder of the style of play copied by Princeton and other colleges from Harvard teams; and, until recently Percy Haughton, the Lineman's Bible."

* * *

[illegible] before the opening of [illegible] season and weeks before [illegible] Harvard was "shown [illegible] how to [illegible] things he [illegible] were overwhelmingly proved [illegible]

* * *

"Pot" told the world that the theory of speed in attack and defense was "all bunk." He went further that the time had long since gone when linemen were alive individual [illegible] He advocated, or at least broadly suggested, that a [illegible] line familiar with certain tricks in the use of heads was the thing first needed for defensive work.

* * *

[illegible] it all [illegible] very well, and in diagram, based on theory, it worked out [illegible] a beautiful song. So beautiful in [illegible] that [illegible] agreeable to such a proposition, [illegible] said to have paid "Pot" one thousand cool berries per week to come to Nassau and "do his stuff" for the Princeton team.

* * *

Like weeks after "Pot" showed at Old Nassau Princeton was licked by Harvard, but [illegible] speed [illegible] offensively and defensively; that [illegible] of Princeton individual assignments and that repeatedly refused to "wait" until the Princeton plays were all formed and shooting at them, All of which was exactly contrary to the dope in "The Lineman's Bible."

* * *

Similar advantage has been taken by other teams over such elevens as have followed [illegible] brought to follow the theories "Pot" advocates, and from the record it would appear that [illegible] was exceedingly lucky for "Pot" that [illegible] did not hesitate in turning out "The Lineman's Bible."

* * *

A slow-forming, deliberate, "hidden-ball" attack, may go very well against "waiting" opponents, and "shifting" linemen, and ends may appear to be "overdistributed" against a poorly-conceived offense, but driving ends and tackles, individually, collectively or utterly, can and do "gum up" the slow-forming, deliberate "hidden ball" offensive plays, while a fast-charging team with well-conceived plays and no ends through "waiting" linemen and ends with bewildering [illegible]

* * *

Coach Cavanaugh's Maroon and Gold team tackles, hopefully in its [illegible] efforts, and with reasons, for the [illegible] of the B. C. men in holding Fordham to a scoreless tie, Indicated [illegible] B. C. does not lack the spirit to play winning football, and when a Cavanaugh team possesses the will to [illegible] which, by the way, is the case, a Cavanaugh team must be reckoned as a difficult opponent for the best.

The Story of an Ambitious Young Sculptor Who Goes to New York to Win His Way

A Stirring Narrative of the Influence of Love on the Lives of a Girl and a Man of the Type That Fills a Big Niche in an Ever Changing Age

THE ACTION SO FAR

James Storrow, a young sculptor coming to New York to perfect himself in his art, meets Torrie Wilson, a strikingly lovely girl studying for the stage under the direction of Jerome Kingsley, a prominent actor-manager who admits Storrow's genius, but discourages and ridicules his future. Later he marries Torrie, and on the advice of Kingsley, who promises to get her a part in the production of the North revue, Torrie quarrels with her husband, then repents and tearfully tells him she has taken a part in the show. But she refuses to accept Kingsley's favors. He leaves her in despair, but returns when he discovers she is to become a mother. Her baby dies and then one of his pals in Quincy, [illegible] Eastman and he is killed in an accident. She resigns.

Storrow makes his last plea to Torrie not to seek a divorce

"HE'S not at all the kind to sulk and fight the wind, and [illegible] a feather or two and [illegible] down in a mood with all the spirit knocked out of her. But he's always been there, waitin', just waitin'. With you, kiddo, it's different. You had a run for your money. And you're one o' those clean-mapped Brummels that the multitude's fond of. His success seems to have a weakness for, mistakin' your quietness for coldness and dramatic it would be doing jinks to cheer you out."

"I ain't so sure that I wouldn't like to show you what a grand little thrasher I am myself, if I could only get you woke up once. No, son, don't send for the reserves. You're still safe. I ain't she-vampin' my Galahad these days without a little encouragement—and you've never given me a pinch-bittin' squeak. But in spite of all that, Capt'n Kidd, I ain't again', you. I'm for you strong, but I'm just a little stronger for Torrie. And I'm also got a chance to make harbor I'm goin' to get [illegible] little huntin' I'm to warp her in [illegible] and I'm goin' to make it. [illegible] to say you're goin' to get a pain in, yoke little innards. But since you mention it, son, why're you so set against givin' Torrie her freedom?"

"I'll answer that question by asking another," was Storrow's retort. "Can any such action as that be taken in a city like this without having the whole sordid mess dragged through the newspapers? Can a woman who's become a Broadway star obtain a divorce without having every detail of it handled about?"

"No, Cap'n Kidd, you can't. You can't put up a case like this and then prime up your kisser and say you want the papers sealed. All you can do is put the soft pedal on by navin' the case unopposed. And even then they'll earn get it into big type, for the stars in what the fishes want to sit up nights readin' about. It [illegible] it."

The stricken look that crept into the eyes at the same time that a deeper color swept up over his face did not escape her. She studied her half-empty beer-glass for a full minute before speaking again.

"This doesn't listen like painless dentistry, I know. And Pannie isn't goin' to pull that old stuff about it hurtin' poppa more'n it hurts little Willie. But it's one o' the times when plain talk is the only kind that's going to do any good. And if I've had to hand you out something that's goin' to give you a cramp in your think-tank, don't run away with the idea that I'm not for you, kid!"

Pleaty To Think About

Storrow continued to brood over what Pannie had said as he took her home to—her decoming-house [illegible] that side street cookery which stood as a sort of ironic monument to her respectability. Even after he had turned back into Broadway, and without being conscious of either time or direction moved northward with the thinning tide of midnight strangers, he continued to review the situation which Pannie had revealed to him.

Most men, when confronted by conditions such as his, would have sought the companionship and counsel of their kind. But Storrow, in that respect, stood different to most men. He turned both the instincts and the habits of his confirmed solitude, the painful inclination for solitude during the moments of stress. And having endured his uncompanioned travail, he found the sharps of peace once more rising against his body.

As Storrow once more took thought of his own infinitesimal small and straggling ego, confronted by forces it could never overcome, he grew into a comprehension of the timeless paradox that he who [illegible]. It was Torrie, now, that he had to think of. He could make the only sacrifice that was left him to make. He would give Torrie her freedom.

He knew what [illegible] that meant to [illegible] of her own [illegible] and [illegible] breast. But he would have to leave New York, leave it for good, leave [illegible]. I have it in [illegible] Lead for [illegible] could carry away with him the [illegible] thought that he had done it for her own good. He would at least have that to live on.

Storrow the next day lost no time in attempting to carry out [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

Unless we had ideals, life would be humdrum. Our ideals are the shining goals we press on towards. They are our beacon lights; our guiding stars. Without ideals, we could only drift in a desultory, unsatisfactory, haphazard, ineffective way.

But there are ideals and ideals. Some are sensible. Some are nonsensible. Some are reasonably practicable. Others are utterly impracticable. Some ideals look beautiful on paper, but collapse when put to the test.

In this work-a-day world it is important that we set up ideals that are worth pressing towards, and that we do not waste effort in furthering ideals which are unsound, visionary and impossible.

Many become obsessed with ideals which are in reality delusions. They picture conditions impossible of attainment while human nature remains human nature as we know it. They conjure up Utopias which never become realities this side of the millennium.

Such idealists, such visionaries, instead of being a blessing, are a curse to the world, for very often they interfere with the best methods of what to them seem to be half-way measures, but which go as far as the stern realities will permit.

Quite a few deals which are more delusions than ideals have been and are being exploded these days. Mankind is learning more and more what is feasible, about what will work, and about some things that are not feasible, that will not work.

* * *

Thoughtful American citizens have followed with keen and close interest the governmental experiments of North Dakota. Several years ago Socialistic ideas began to gain popularity there. A man by the name of Townley became leader of what developed into an important political movement. Farmers galore flocked to his standard. His party, which became known as the Non-Partisan League, finally got into power.

The Non-Partisan League set out to show how to run a State in the interest of the people, the ordinary people, farmers, etc., and how to put capitalists and everything savoring of capitalism where it and they belonged. The league, through its complete control of the State Legislature, worked many radical schemes of schemes of a socialistic and revolutionary nature. The Bank of North Dakota was organized with power to lend money with favorable interest; all State and county and other public and official funds had to be deposited in this institution, and other regulations were instituted to make it the dominating banking power of the State, enjoying privileges not granted any other bank.

An ambitious scheme for establishing State grain elevators was launched in order to protect the farmers from gouging at the hands of the owners of the existing elevators. State flour mills were also devised. State bonds were, of course, floated to finance these and other projects conceived by Townley and his followers. North Dakota was to be a Utopia for the common people. If farmers suffered losses through hailstorms or the like, why, the State would make good their losses. There was to be a more generous lending of the Bank of North Dakota funds to the farmers and other "little" people, but not a cent for the kind of pecuniary banks like to do business with.

The whole scheme captivated the majority of the voters. It looked so attractive, so ideal—on paper.

* * *

Today Townley is under jail sentence. The voters have "recalled" the Non-Partisan League Governor and other leading league officials, and have elected in their stead the opponents of the league. The Bank of North Dakota got into trouble long ago, having found that it was easy enough to lend money with lavish hand to farmers and others, but that it was another thing to try to collect. Financial scandals have been rife, and when the new administration takes hold, sensational revelations are promised. The wonderful mill and elevator plans have died a-borning. North Dakota's investment and credit have been shot to pieces.

In short, Townley's ideal has proved a disastrous delusion.

North Dakota's experience has simply confirmed Russia's grand scale experiments and smaller scale experiments elsewhere, namely, that ideals are worse than worthless unless founded on horse sense, unless attuned to human nature, unless predicated on the principle that brains, management, skill, experience and common sense are indispensable for the successful conduct of the affairs of this world. Dreams remain only dreams, or they become nightmares, unless tuned in hand by those possessing the "know how."

* * *

What the world needs is not more totally-impractical idealists, but more idealism on the part of practical men who possess influence and power and capital and ability.

Stocks Weaken in New York; Call Rate Down to 4½%; Sterling Exchange Up

OILS FIRST IN INTEREST AND ACTIVITY

Prices Back and Fill During a Quiet Morning; Fluctuations are Narrow

By M. H. ROSS
Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, but the market had a heavy tone. Oils were first in interest and activity. For the list in general fluctuation ruled small. The market was quiet and morning transactions approximated 350,000 shares. Call money opened at 5 per cent, and dropped to 4½ per cent. There was already loose to the foreign exchange market, although sterling cables reached a new record low. Demand sterling opened a shade higher at 12.92.

Mexican Petroleum sold over a fraction at the end of the morning and Royal Dutch was down more than a point. Houston showed a larger loss. Tobacco Products and Atlantic Gulf were among the strongest issues.

SMALL CHANGES AT START.

The market had an irregular price movement at the start and changes averaged small. For a few minutes the movement appeared to be the advance brought out enough stock to check the rise. Some issues, in fact, quickly reacted to figure under previous quotations. Trading attention was largely devoted to oils and they improved on the whole. Domestic petroleum shares rather than foreign issues of this class. Mexican Petroleum opened with a small loss and declined more than a point before covering operations caused a complete recovery. Royal Dutch was the weakest oil. It was off nearly two points in the first hour, declining more than one on the first sale. Rails were quiet and indefinite in trend. Steels began with small gains, excepting U. S. Steel, but receded.

MARKET BECAME HEAVY.

By mid-morning the market had a heavy tone, tobacco, motor, tire and shipping shares having weakened. Sugars were firm and coppers irregular. United Fruit was a strong feature, having shares again sold soon after the exchange opened and retaining much of the advance. High for the year were established in the list for 1921 by Cuban American Sugar, Associated Dry Goods, Corn Products and Pure Oil. The hat-named stock was unusually active. Narrowing continued to descend in the second hour. Liberty issues were firm. Sterling with Union Oil is expected today. Generally speaking the list ranged in the latter part of the forenoon. The lower call rate and favorable bank statement, showing money had little influence upon stocks. Narrowing demand for the latter was limited to the amount exchange sold each day. About 15,000 shares of Mexican Petroleum loaned flat. Woolworth commanded a premium of 1-32 of 1 per cent.

October Stock Sales

Sales of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for October totaled 12,139,890 shares, against 13,420,000 shares in September. Transactions in shares aggregated the most since June and the largest since November. The one-million-share day for October brought the total for 1921 to date up to eighteen.

TO BURN FOOD IN WEST THIS WINTER

Evans Points Out That Farmers Will Be Driven to Avoid High Cost of Coal

BY C. B. EVANS

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The liquidation has proceeded so far that "business troubles" in this part of the country are no more inconvenienced, but we have an incident this week that hurts quite a bit in the West—the default in the payment or $5,500,000,000 notes of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul due Tuesday.

These securities were placed on the market by the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, and were thought to be a gilt edge issue. The sale of the notes was not confined to this city, but on account of the large number of country correspondents of the continental banks are thought to have been freely sold in the small towns of the West, none in the East.

One has sympathy for the losers in this country, which is rather large, and for poor old China, which is in a sea of trouble. Japan with its billion dollars of gold and its great military power, sits by watching.

TO BURN FOOD.

China, and Russia as much Russia—or such of the people as see anything across the water—must stand aghast. Meanwhile the Hoover plan to feed them will be one of the annoyances we have, scarcely started yet, but certain to be a part of the winter when the colder weather comes on. P. S. Goodman, the crop expert, reports that the farmers are wonderfully say corn will be burned for fuel this Winter. He sets forth the relative fuel value of corn and commercial combustibles in thermal units as follows:

Dry wood, 6,750; lignite, 6,350; bituminous coal (average), 12,250; kindlestarte anthracite, 13,200; mixed corn on cob, 7,940; yellow corn, 8,040; white corn, 7,841.

With mixed corn at 35 cents a bushel on the farm, the fuel value is equal to bituminous coal at $14.91 a ton; at 50 cents a bushel it is equal at $12.80; at 25 cents equal to the coal at $18.64. The ash of burnt corn is a valuable fertilizer.

As to the crop his statistic, not quite complete, is that the corn crop 600,000 bushels less than that of last year, but is more than 300,000,000 bushels of available corn left over we need not worry.

ALL SAME BUSINESS.

The thrifty American will probably never get over the feeling that it is wicked to waste material. But that material is destroyed when animals eat it and we eat the animals. Perhaps it is not any more wicked or worse in putting corn through the natural machine called a cow than putting it through a still. The still will come out as corn starch or syrup for the candy factory.

The farmer in the vicinity of the 40th parallel must have artificial heat. When the gift comes from the sun to cotton that corn can be reproduced and coal cannot. The coal crop was sufficient for good and all when the world was finished.

Stronger Banking Position

The banking position became stronger in October, according to report issued for the month by the Federal Reserve Board says: "Steady liquidation of credit, increases in reserve strength and of reserve ratios, and some decline in bills held by reserve banks, have been the characteristic features from the banking standpoint. Financially, the outstanding occurrence has been the marked increase in prices of standard bonds, particularly Liberty bonds and the limited decline in rates of interest. Foreign exchange, however, has shown great instability, largely due to disturbed political conditions in certain countries and continued difficulty of developing any system of international financing."

Corporation Reports

Sears-Roebuck sales for October totaled $17,378,285, a decrease of $2,730,173 or 13.90 per cent. as compared with October, 1920. For the year to date sales aggregated $144,-211,000, a decrease of $14,485,000 or 31.03 per cent.

Net profits of August Regal year Julius Kayser & Co. report a net income of $1,200,000 for the year ended September 30, as compared with $1,000,000 in the previous year.

The American Hide & Leather Co. reports for the September quarter a net profit of $290,-850, equivalent to $1.54 per share on outstanding preferred stock, against $1,071,000 or $5.67 per share in 1920.

For the August fiscal year the American Tobacco Company reports earnings after preferred and common dividends of $190,374, against $423,281 in the preceding year.

The New Jersey Zinc Co. reports for the September quarter net profits of $1,500,000, equal to $3.75 per share on the common stock, against $3,000,000 or $8 per share on capital stock, against $3,000,000 or $8 per share on capital stock, against $3,000,000 or $8 per share on capital

The Boston American $1,500 Name-This-Auto Test Competition is a test of skill and judgment open to every reader.

The pictures of fifty automobiles are to be printed, one each day. Participants are required to identify the makes of the different cars. They also are expected to write a letter, of not more than 100 words, along Walk Right-Drive Right lines.

The $1,500 will reward those readers who identify the largest number of automobiles and write the best letters. The first reward will be $500. There are ninety-four others.

The Rules of the Test, list of awards and scoring plan will be printed each day as the opportunity may present itself.

INDIAN CHIEF RIDES HORSE INTO HALL

Chief Mondaaye and Wife of Seminole Tribe Visit Textile Show

Chief James Mondaaye of the Seminole tribe in the Lake Okeechobee section of the Everglades in Florida, accompanied by his wife, Juanita Darkfeather, a Cherokee squaw, paid a "flying" visit to the International Textile Exhibition in Mechanics Building when the chief rode on a lithe, spirited steed up the steps from the street into the exhibition halls.

The chief and his wife, who are on a visit to Boston, were the guests of Chester L. Campbell, manager of the exhibition. They were the objects of considerable interest to the exhibitors and spectators alike when they made their way through the various exhibits in Indian paint and costume, the chief horseback, with a blanket thrown about his shoulders, and his young, attractive wife with the beads, braids and buckskin pantalettes.

DEEPLY IMPRESSED.

They were deeply impressed with everything they saw at the exhibition.

"This is too much to understand," said the chief. "All making noise at the same time. I can't see it. It's wonderful. Blankets which take my wife or my wife's folks more than a month to make are made here complete in every detail in a very short time before my eyes. The wonderful looms and thousands of dancing bobbins spinning away and completing the finished products are wonderful to behold."

Another thing which interested the chief deeply is the story of the Indian used by the National Shawmut Bank as its emblem. He admired the characterization of the features, which he said were true, showing as they did the stern, cruel makeup of the face, and the suggested stubborn spirit and great physical courage and intelligence.

ATTENDING CARLISLE.

Both he and his wife are well educated. He attended the Ohio State University and played left end on the football team.

Among the thousands of visitors during the past few days at the exhibition have been large numbers of Japanese, both students and business men, who have shown keen interest in all the exhibits.

17 PRISONERS OFFER BLOOD FOR TRANSFUSION

New York, Nov. 2.—Seventeen prisoners on Blackwell's Island have volunteered to give their blood for transfusion operations at the contagious wards at City Hospital whenever such operations are deemed necessary. The list of volunteers was headed by John T. Stetchen, sent to prison as a result of building graft exposures.

British Influence Over American Newspapers

U. S. Government Should Investigate to Find Out What Journals Are Poisoning Our Democratic Institutions

We call attention to a recent article which appeared in La Revue Francaise, a journal published in Paris, describing David Lloyd George, Prime Minister of Great Britain, and analyzing some of the sources of his power. The interest in this article lies in its statements concerning the control which the British Government exercises over newspapers in the United States and France.

We are informed that the statements in the article have been verified by the representatives of the Irish Republic. If so the article has a great and dangerous significance to the people of this country, and the government ought to make an investigation to ascertain what American newspapers are subject to this alleged control by the British Government.

To poison our democratic institutions at their very fountainhead, the source of information by which the people must be guided in their democratic control of the country, is not only the worst, but is one of the most dangerous kinds of treason. We quote the article:

It is not only at home that he disposes of a domesticated or tractable press; he owns, in every sense of the word, both journals and journalists in France and in the United States. Sometimes, even, his skill in handling them becomes too great.

Thus, the other day, in order to convince the House of Commons most thoroughly of the incomparable benignity, the marvelous generosity of spirit, with which the Ministers of the Crown have been conducting the Irish negotiations, he cited extracts from French and American newspapers relative to the latest British proposals: all commending the charity, the conciliatory spirit, and the sovereign political mastery of David Lloyd George. The Irish, who have their own reasons for frowning upon these matters, verified the references.

They were most accurate. The papers cited did express themselves in the terminology he attributed to them, but—at the moment when the Premier brandished these dispatches from New York and Paris, which brought him such laudatory and impartial views from editorial rooms, none of the journals involved had as yet appeared! How shall any one do battle with a man so rarely gifted with prescience and second sight?

Unsportsmanlike Attitude

Hoodlum Element Present Among Those Who Go to Stadium to Vent Spleen Against Harvard

The performances of a certain class of spectators at the Harvard-Centre game last Saturday leaves a great deal to be desired and presents a problem for those in control of Harvard football.

Good sportsmanship would require those who live in this community and who wish to enjoy the games which Harvard plays to withhold unseemly manifestations of their dislike of Harvard. They do not have to go to the games if they cannot restrain their unfriendly disposition. They do not go there to cheer a team in which they have a real interest. When they cheer a visiting team it becomes very evident that their cheering does not at all flow from friendship to the visiting team, but from dislike of Harvard.

While this attitude on the part of large numbers of spectators is not good sportsmanship, it would be tolerable if it were no accompanied by other manifestations of dislike which are not tolerable. There is a good deal of the hoodlum element among those who vent their spleen against the local college, and they act according to their kind. Their language is often unfit for women to hear, and women, of course, are scattered throughout the Stadium at these games.

The cheering of this hoodlum element for the visiting team is quite bearable. Indeed it is rather desirable, although the Harvard sympathisers have never been accused of lacking any courtesy in that respect. But it might be possible to herd these hoodlums into some sections of the Stadium where their language will not be offensive to those who are not accustomed to hear it.

"Blackmail a la Boston"

In one of our national weekly journals there appears an article under the caption "Blackmail a la Boston." The article from a literary standpoint is well done, but in every other respect it is highly offensive to good taste, to the conventions and to fair play.

The article assumes that Mr. Coakley and Mr. Pelletier are guilty of charges which have been made against them. This assumption is made in advance of proof and on rumor and charges. The axiom that a man is innocent until he is proved guilty is ignored, and facts and rumors and charges are so marshaled that the readers of the article will be led to believe that these men are guilty.

Now we do not need to be reminded that charges and rumors are not proof, however official the charges or frequent the rumors.

Neither Mr. Pelletier nor Mr. Coakley have had their day in court. The findings in the Tufts case are not conclusive against Mr. Coakley. He was not a defendant in the Tufts case, and Mr. Pelletier was not at all involved in it.

We are bound to assume as a matter of common justice that these men are innocent until they have been proved guilty. It is especially proper that journals which have more than a local circulation should be careful not to prejudice their readers, for news of an acquittal of these men might not follow into all the places where the prejudicial articles went.

McSwiney's Great Sacrifice

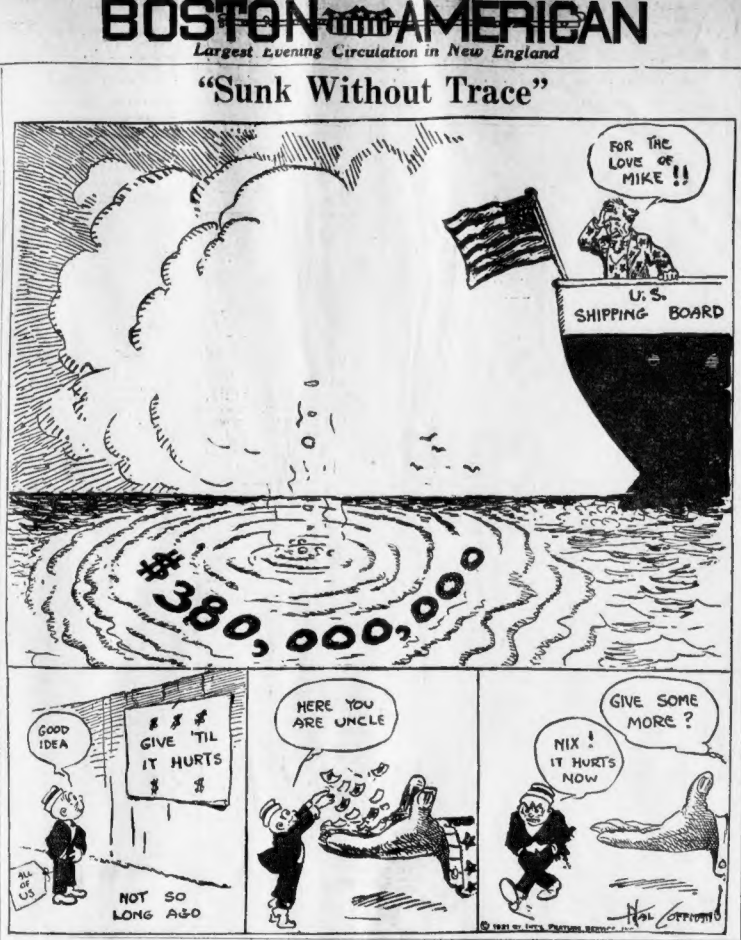
The memorial services which were held last Sunday in honor of Mayor McSwiney recall to mind his extraordinary sacrifice.

Probably not once in the history of the struggle for human liberty did any man suffer so prolonged an agony that his death might stimulate the passion for freedom in the hearts of his countrymen. And the annals of the struggle for liberty contain most of the great sacrifices in history.

McSwiney's writings, his letters, his poems, and the other indications of his state of mind show that he faced the enemies of his country's liberty and of his own person with the gentleness, magnanimity, charity and forgiveness of Him who sacrificed Himself on Calvary.

So long as the human race loves its liberty, McSwiney will occupy one of the highest seats among the world's most honored men.

"Sunk Without Trace"



GARRETT P. SERVISS ON EARTH'S MOTION

What Would Happen to This Planet in Case It Should Be Stopped Suddenly by Collision or in Any Other Way

By Garrett P. Serviss

"WHAT would happen if, by some unforeseen obstacle, the orbital motion of the earth were retarded? Would the decrease of the earth's centrifugal force cause it to be drawn into the sun, or would the orbit be automatically adjusted so that equilibrium would be restored?"

The writer of that may seem to some readers to be borrowing trouble about nothing, but in reality he has asked a very practical question. The kind of knowledge he seeks is of the same nature as that sought by the steamship passenger who insists on knowing what provision has been made for an encounter with icebergs.

Rushes Eastward

The earth rushes eastward round the sun at a velocity of about 18½ miles per second. But, while interstellar space, like the Atlantic ocean, offers plenty of open room for speeding suns and planets, yet it also contains many potential obstacles such as great nebulae, both luminous and dark, some of which are billions of miles across, and wandering comets, and shoals of meteors, and huge shrieking bodies which are only known to exist by the effects that they produce upon visible stars that have fallen under the influence of their attraction; to say nothing of the millions of other suns which, like ours, are running in all directions, like ships at sea, each seeking its own port.

Some of these, like the immense star Arcturus, which exceeds our sun thousands of times in magnitude, are moving with appalling speed, as if they were giant battleships running their way through the universe.

So it is evident that accidents may happen even to the best ordered solar systems, and an inquiry like that made above is worthy of an answer.

If the "unforeseen obstacle" should absolutely destroy the earth's orbital motion round the sun, the consequence would be that the earth would fall straight into the sun and be consumed almost in a flash. But there would be time for its inhabitants to make dignified preparation for their end, since the earth would take about sixty-four and one-half days to fall to the sun after its orbital motion was arrested. If the orbital motion of the moon were similarly destroyed it would fall to the earth in about four days and twenty hours.

If the obstacle acted for a short time only and destroyed but a part of the earth's orbital motion, then the earth would drop nearer the sun and begin to travel round it in a smaller orbit. In that case the earth would adjust itself automatically to the new state of affairs. But probably it would not be very agreeable for us to be carried, say, twice as near the sun as we are now, for then the quantity of solar heat falling upon the earth would be quadrupled.

If the obstacle acted as a continuous resistance to the earth's orbital motion, then the earth would gradually approach the sun on a spiral path, until, at last, it would plunge into the solar furnace.

The same result would be produced, but much more slowly, if the resistance were encountered by the earth periodically at some point in its orbit. The orbit would then become a little smaller after each encounter, until, at last, it might become so small that it would pass within the body of the sun, which is 860,000 miles in diameter.

Something of this kind seems actually to have occurred to Encke's comet, whose orbit has been observed to become slightly smaller at several returns, as if, at some place, it encountered a swarm of meteors lying in its track.

It would also be possible for some vast mass, like an extinguished sun, passing near the solar system, to so act upon the earth as to increase instead of decrease its orbital velocity, and in that case the earth would adjust itself to the new conditions by moving away from the sun, and travelling in a larger and more remote orbit, perhaps away out in the cold of distant space.

Less Heat

If it were carried as far away as Jupiter is from the sun, the heat that it received would be only about one-twenty-fifth as much as it now gets.

But the earth might be dragged off, like a kidnapped child, by a huge passing body, and then it would never see its family again. All the other planets would suffer similarly, the solar system would be broken up and scattered abroad, and the sun itself, owing to the tremendous tidal forces set in action by the near approach of the disturbing body, would probably be burst asunder, and the entire system reduced to the chaotic state of a whirling, spiral nebula.

This is not purely a fanciful picture, for there are many reasons for believing that just such catastrophes have happened to other suns and solar systems, and have been visible to us in the form of new, temporary stars.

But the universe is only the more interesting for these things. The joy of the Creator is in making, unmaking and remaking, and, perhaps, in a higher state or existence we shall take the same pleasure in these vast changes that we now find in watching the progression from seed to flower and from flower back to seed, while Spring, Summer and Autumn flit over our gardens.

MOUNTAINEER MAKES TRADE OF SAVING MAIL PLANES

By John Goldstrom

Former Special Agent, Air Mail Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—When a Western air mail pilot has taken his last hop over the Rockies, and has made his landing where the landing is soft, as soon as he has registered with St. Elijah, patron saint of aviators, he says:

"And reserve a room next to mine for H. Larsen, Coal & Lumber, Rawlins, Wyoming."

Elijah smilingly and tenderly assures him that Mr. Larsen will be given distinguished consideration, and confides that he has arranged to send his own chariot to Rawlins for Mr. Larsen whenever he is ready for it.

Pilot Harry Smith, assigned to carry me from Cheyenne to Salt Lake City on my transcontinental trip with the Air Mail, was dodging one blizzard and running into another, 14,000 feet high.

Violently ill and exhausted, I wasn't afraid we would hit. I was afraid we wouldn't hit hard enough.

We had got past Sherman Hill, against which Pilot Woodward had crashed fatally in a snow storm, and were alongside Elk Mountain. Breasting a seventy-mile wind we were making barely thirty-five miles an hour in blinding snow.

Now a pitching, swooping dive, then a hard hundred foot fall through a hole, and a thudding bump against the bottom of it as barring as though the ground had been struck.

It was an abandoned threshing machine.

I sided a bit Harry helped me out and I staggered feebly around in the whirling snow, getting my bearings.

Another shout.

"We are down near a pumping station, about eight miles from Rawlins. We'll telephone Larsen. He'll come out and help us lash down the ship. She's trying to blow away."

I had heard about Larsen in Cheyenne, a kindly, middle-aged Dane, who had practically turned over his business to his sons in order to pursue his real vocation, pulling stranded and wrecked air mail pilots out of blizzards and snow drifts.

On the way to Rawlins the few automobiles we met were stalled by the storm. Larsen guided his little sage brush canoe through the storm as if he liked it. And he did.

We spent that evening in Larsen's home, where he, with the quiet and kindly Mrs. Larsen, served us Danish cakes and things that had been brought over from Scandinavia and cellared before the great reform came.

The favorite Larsen saga, both with himself and with the pilots, is of the time when a Union Pacific passenger engineer reported that he had seen a wrecked mail plane in the snowdrift. His train had passed a broken mass of machinery, partly covered by drifting snow, in a howling blizzard.

Mrs. Larsen has packed food and filled thermos bottles and sent Larsen out at the head of the relief expedition. They searched nearly all day and were suffering keenly from the exposure when they found the wreck.

It was an abandoned threshing machine.

After my convulsions had subsided a bit Harry helped me out and I staggered feebly around in the whirling snow, getting my bearings.

IS SHE MORE OF A SAINT THAN A FOOL?

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

DEAR ME, what a book!

All about a girl who made a fool of herself—just because she was a fool.

No—she wasn't in love with a man at all. She never saw him before in her life and she only saw him once and he was going to France to fight, and so because he was lonely and homesick, she threw her life away or tried to for him.

And he went to France and she never knew whether he was killed or not and didn't care—for he was nothing to her at all.

But she was a beautiful, fair girl who looked like an angel and everyone persisted in thinking her a saint.

Tried to Tell Everybody

And she hated hypocrisy and she didn't want to pretend and she was determined to tell.

And when she quit war work and went home, she tried to tell her father. And her father stared and turned scarlet and stopped her, sent for a doctor, and a trained nurse, and said her brain was affected by the shock of her war work.

And when her brother came home from France, she tried to tell him—and he said "Shell shock," and wouldn't listen, and packed her off to the country to live on a farm for awhile.

And then the Man came—the Real Man—not the One Man, of course. She settled that part of the business when she made a fool of herself. But the Real Man she could really love and who really loved her.

And he didn't think she was a saint at all—he didn't like saints, they bored him—and before she would promise to marry him, she told him. And he laughed and said, "What of it?" And they were married and lived happy ever after.

I do hope no girl who has made a fool of herself will read that book, and go and do likewise.

This particular girl was a fool to begin with. She couldn't have thrown herself away for nothing if she hadn't been. And she wasn't exactly what you'd call over-refined, or any too delicate-minded—was she? But, somehow, in my foolish mid-Victorian way, I could find it in my heart to forgive her for her senseless folly, if she had kept it to herself and borne the weight of her own conscience and her own humiliation and her own shame—in her own heart.

But why try to burden her brother and her father and the man she married with her story? Why put it up to them?

There wasn't a thing they could do. The whole miserable affair was over, and should have been forgotten. Only the saint loved to think about it and talk about it, and tell and tell and tell—

Somehow, I don't think she was so very much of a saint, after all.

If She Had Been Wise

I think she was an hysterical, self-centred egotist of a vain girl who should have been occupying her mind with something wholesome and honest.

Did the man do right to marry her and laugh at her attempt at confession?

I suppose he did. He seems to have been the same sort of a human being as she was—a person of not particularly high mind and with no lofty ideals.

I do wish I could find a story with a heroine who is nice and wholesome and natural. I am so tired of reading about hysterical persons who really ought to be in a neuropathic ward in a hospital.

Yes—I think the father was right. He should have sent her to a sanitarium and kept her there—for a long while, anyhow.

Only he should have sent her there before she began her war work, and before she had a chance to make a fool of herself—not afterwards.

What a lot of trouble he would have saved.

COULD WE BUT KNOW

By PEARL O'NEALE HOLT

THE hasty word too often spoken
And soon forgot,
Comes back some time to our remembrance,
Tho' bidden not;
Perchance the one we owe atonement
Is far away;
It may be in "That Fairer Region"
Where night is day.
The tender thought, the loving word
We'd wait afar,
Could we but know they only heard
Through gates ajar.
Could we but know our tender yearning
To them is known,
For all the many kindly acts
We might have shown,
It would to us bring consolation.
No words can tell—
But if not now—some day we'll know
That all is well.

WHY GO FAR AWAY TO BURN THE INCENSE?

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

A CHINESE proverb says: Better do a good deed near at home than go far away to burn incense.

You remember the ugly, old story of the man who was seen berating and beating a woman. When a courageous passerby protested against such treatment of a lady, the brute said she was not a lady, but his wife!

That same beast could probably be a "perfect gentleman" if he wanted to make a good impression upon a lady who was not his wife!

This type—and you should make sure that, in some way, you do not include yourself in this kind—find it easier to go far away to burn incense than to do a good deed near at home.

One often hears cynical comment on the praise of a financial brigand, who happens to be not only correct in his domestic relations, but even a conspicuously fine husband and a devoted father.

It would be better, of course, if he were as noble "abroad" as he is at home; but, if choice has to be made, is it not well to give a preferential tribute of appreciation to the domestic burner of incense?

So common folks put on their best front for strangers, and show their worst face at home! Evidently that was the case with a certain couple. A woman congratulated her friend on having married such a splendid man as her husband.

"Oh, but you ought to live with him!" was the tactless reply.

Unpleasant Subject

That is an unpleasant subject, and perhaps needs not be pursued further, because it probably brings pain and no balm of solution to many who are similarly circumstanced.

Therefore, let us take a short trip really abroad, before we bring our theme home again. We are now in India, let us say, at the headquarters of some foreign missionary enterprise. Consecrated workers, who have traveled thousands of miles away from their normal setting, literally spend their lives in order to bring religion to the Orient, whence all light has come to the West!

Study the statistics of the men and women and millions annually involved, and the pitifully meagre results—and you are bound to admit that there is a flagrant instance of going far away to burn incense.

One does not question the sincerity of these undertakings, if one at least queries how much more good—even in soul-saving!—could be done by the same men and women and millions used in "home missions"!

However, there is not so much to kindle the imagination in dealing with the social domestic problems, which continuously confront you with your impotence!

Still, if you must burn incense in missions, it is just as well to know that much more than half of our population has no contact whatever with any form of organized religion! Plenty of chance for your good deed therefore at home!

Leaving the spiritual realm and coming down to earth, here is a growing army of unemployed—now nearly five millions week—and we are doing nothing to meet the Winter's mischievous menace of unemployment and suffering in the United States.

But we are going far away to burn the incense of our sympathy and our help in Russia and Austria and Hungary and China, the while we fail to do the good and wise deed at home, which would save us from starvation and possible revolution!

Not that we begrudge the needed aid to other countries, but, surely, charity and self-help should begin at home, even if they mean also to migrate!

Canny Wisdom

And so we might continue to illustrate, impersonally, the canny wisdom of the old Chinese proverb; but we cannot leave it, without bringing it quite personally home again.

We waste so much of ourselves in sighing, Alexander-like, for new worlds to conquer, when we are far from having made fine conquest of the little world in which we live!

Honestly, now, how nearly up to standard are you in this regard? Have you the habit of burning your incense at home? Are you your best, and do you do your best, among your nearest, or do you keep fairest face for strangers and for "state occasions"?

Last Summer we knew a young woman who kept a camp in the New Hampshire hills. She had to get her ice supply more than half a mile away. No queen is more regarded as a bride is happier than this young woman on her daily march, trundling with cheer her wheelbarrowful of ice!

That is the way to dignify your most menial task and to transform sordidness into beauty!

Your spirit is the great transformer. Let us help you first to make a heavenly kingdom of your immediate setting and a sacrament of your humble task.

Who knows what else may yet be added to you?
